SPECULATION

CAUSED MILLION DOLLAR

CHELSEA BANK CRASH

President Hinckley Said to Have Dealt in Western Properties to Large Extent. Head of Institution Reported Dying at His Home.

Speculation in Western land by President Sylvester Baxter Hinckley of the wrecked First National Bank of Chelsea caused the downfall of that institution.

President Hinckley is said to hold 1,200 of the 3,000 shares of bank stock. He recently deeded Boston real estate supposed to be worth $500,000 to the bank. This was to cover money borrowed from the institution.

Some of this property is Brookline and Boston real estate, which is expected to realize well for the depositors.

Funds Tied Up in "Wildcat" Ventures.

But President Hinckley had invested considerably, also, in Western land, more of a "wildcat" than of a conservative nature. The doubtful assets of this Western realty is believed to be the principal danger to the depositors and stockholders.

President Hinckley is dangerously ill with cancer.

The institution, which was closed last night by order of Bank Examiner Ewer, was founded in 1864. It was regarded as one of the strongest and most conservative in the East. It had a capital stock of $300,000 in 3,000 shares of $100 par value each. At the time of its closure it had deposits and other liabilities aggregating nearly $1,000,000. Its depositors numbered mam small business men, but some of Chelsea's most solid firms were also on its books.

Weathered Famous Panic of '72.

President Hinckley had borrowed considerable money from his bank for real estate operations, according to a statement to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day by C Willis Gould. Mr. Gould is now secretary, treasurer and manager of the Provident Co-operative Bank of Chelsea. He was formerly a director in the First National, but resigned for reasons he refuses to state publicly.

Cashier Walter Whittlesey said to-day: "The cause of the bank's going down was poor investments in property. This bank has been one of the strongest in Massachusetts. It was one of the few that withtood the panic of '72. It has never before had to ask for any time on payments."

At 9:30, while the crowd was gathered outside, A. B. Atwood came out of the bank and pasted up the following notice on the bank door:

"All our checks drawn on the First National Bank of Chelsea will be paid at the Winnisimmet Bank on presentation.

"ATWOOD & M'MANUS."

Atwood & McManus are case and box manufacturers at the corner of Carter and Vale streets, Chelsea, and are among the First National's heaviest depositors.

Sylvester B. Hinckley, Jr., son of President Sylvester B. Hinckley of the First National and with whom his father is living, says:

Hinckley on Death Bed.

"My father is critically ill with a fatal disease. He knows nothing whatsoever of the affairs in connection with this First National Bank of Chelsea. He has been ill since last June. During the past six weeks his condition has been such that the faint hopes we had of his eventual recovery have been given up.

With reference to the rumor that his father had made a deposit of $500,000 worth of real estate not long since to tide the bank along in its difficulties, Mr. Hinckley, Jr., said:

"I know nothing at all about this. I do not see how it could be possible, however, owing to my father's illness. I do not think it possible for my father to have attended to any business within the past few months. I do not expect him to live many weeks, owing to his condition. He is confined to his bed and has been for weeks."

C. Willis Gould of the Provident Co-operative Bank, formerly director in the First National, says:

"I still hold 25 shares of the First National Bank stock which is quoted at its par value of $100 a share.

"President Hinckley of the First National was a heavy investor in Boston real estate and considerable money was borrowed from his bank for that purpose.

"The Co-operative Bank has been doing a checking business with the First National and at present there is a balance of $179.04 due us from it.

FEARS NO RUN.

"I do not anticipate any run on our bank from the trouble with the First National. If our depositors should become excited and demand their money it will be easily adjusted, as the State laws make it necessary for our depositors to give thirty days' notice before withdrawing. Our bank has $80,000 assets."

The Chelsea Savings Bank officials say they anticipate no run on their institution.

As early as 6 o'clock to-day the depositors of the First National, many of them Hebrews, had gathered in front of the building. The men arrived first and then the women came carrying their bank books and looking for some sign that the bank had been closed.

H. Fleksman, a merchant at No. 64 Fourth street, and his wife were among the early arrivals. Mr. Fleksman had been a depositor at the bank for a long time. He said that all the money he had for use in his business was on deposit in the bank.

BUSINESS TIED UP.

"The closing of the bank will tie up my business," said he, "I have heard rumors for two months that there was trouble in the bank, but I paid no attention to them. I had confidence in the bank and feel now that I shall get every cent I have on deposit, although it may take time. As recently as yesterday I made a deposit when I had $150 placed to my credit."

GOMPERS SEES MORAN, FAVORS MEN LIKE HIM

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, called upon District Attorney Moran this morning and was closeted with him for half an hour in his private office.

When Mr. Gompers wa sleaving a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter asked him the purpose of his call.

"I have just made a friendly call upon the District Attorney. We are old friends." he replied.

"Are you in favor of Mr. Moran's candidacy for Governor?"

"Let me reply to that question in this way," said Mr. Gompers. "When an opportunity presents itself where a man is found stands for the people's interests against privilege and power, I think the people would be very foolish if they did not take advantage of such an opportunity to vote and work for what is in their own interests."

"Then you are a Moran man, Mr. Gompers?" the reporter asked.

"I am no man's man," replied Mr. Gompers, straightening up.

"Is it Mr. Moran you referred to just a moment ago?"

"Mr. Moran is the man I had in mind," said Mr. Gompers.

Mr. Gompers said he intended to leave Boston for Maine to-day, where he will begin his fight against the election of Congressman Littlefield.

"How long will you remain in Maine?" Mr. Gompers was asked.

"Until Littlefield is defeated," he replied.

WOMAN WAILS FOR LIFE-TIME SAVINGS

Crash Due to Loans To Officers, Says Federal Official

The failure of the First National Bank of Chelsea is due to excessive loans to officers and directors of the bank. —Statement issued to-day by comptroller of currency office at Washington, D. C.

With the living fear of the poorhouse written on her wrinkled face, Mrs. Cataerine Gorman was one of the most pathetic figures clustered about the doors of the wrecked bank to-day.

She tottered up to a big policeman, whose stalwart strength was needed to restrain the crowds trying to get into the bank.

"It's all I had, $400," gasped the little old woman to the officer, "please, sir, can you tell me if I'll get it back"—then her voice choked and she began weeping afresh, a picture of despair, and of fear, of want and beggary.

Fails to Comfort Her.

The big policeman, used as he had become to impatience, grief, unreason and anxiety on the part of depositors, stooped over and said kindly:

"There, there, Ma'am, don't you fret. I guess your money will be all right."

"But isn't I get into the bank. See, I've brought my bank book. There, it calls for $400 and its every cent I have in the world."

"I'm sorry, ma'am, but I can't let anybody in. They're trying to straighten things out now. You go back home and don't fret," and the broad hand of the officer, with its sleeve of official blue, patted the old woman kindly on the thin shoulder.

But Mrs. Dorman only walked feebly over to the bank steps and sat down. Huddled in her thin blackstuff shawl, with a faded black hat on her gray head, she wept.

"It's bitter hard," she wailed, "for an old woman like me. I'm 80 years old, too old to work. My husband is dead. I haven't a relative in the world nor any friend to whom I can turn.

"And now they've got my $400. I have been fourteen years saving it by washing. I can't do no more washing for I'm too old and I can't earn any more money. I don't know what I would do when that goes but even that's gone now.

To Lose Her Home.

"And the place where I live at No. 84 Cherry street is to be torn down next week to make room for a big block, and I can't go anywhere else, even if I could stay there, for I haven't any money."

And the wretched woman, without money, friends or hope, wept again, a sad example of the suffering caused even by a temporary loss of her little all.

Just after Mrs. Dorman left the policeman another woman of different type walked up to him in a determined way and declared herself:

"I am Mrs. Gussie Cohen of No. 400 Saratoga street, East Boston. I have a bankbook that calls for $1,000, and I want to go into the bank."

"No one's allowed in there," replied the officer.

"I want to see Mr. Whittlesey," reiterated Mrs. Cohen warmly.

"Mr. Whittlessy is busy," said the officer; "he is seeing no one except those who have checks."

"Well, I want to know if the bank has failed."

"No, ma'am, it hasn't, so far as any official information is given out. You needn't worry about your money."

Just then a man came up and demanded to see Mr. Whittlesey about a discount check of the day before. A First National clerk, who had just come out of the bank, stepped up and said:

"I am sorry, but Mr. Whittlesey can do nothing about yesterday's checks. He can't even get into his own desk to get a cigar for himself."

The discount check holder strode away in disgust. Meanwhile Mrs. Cohen had started off to the Winnisimmet Bank, where it was reported that First National Bank deposits were being accepted at fifty cents on the dollar.

The next questioner of the patient policeman was a woman crying, accompanied by a little girl als crying. She said: "I am Mrs. Muckley and I live at No. 89 Cherry street. I put $25 in the bank for my little grandson, Joe Cullen, this little girl's brother. He's my daughter Margaret's boy and she works in a laundry and $25 is a good deal to us."

And the grandmother and little sister went away, crying anew.

WAR VETERAN SLASHES THROAT JUMPS 30 FEET

Despondent by reason of persistent ill health, William H. Packard, aged seventy-nine years, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home in Chelsea, to-day slashed his throat four times with a razor, then leaped from a window to a encrete pavement thirty feet below, dying an hour afterward of his self inflited injuries.

Packard, who had been confined to the hospital for some months on account of sickness, occupied a room next to the bathroom. On account of his having been acting peculiarly for some time a constant watch was kept upon him. At an early hour to-day, while the nurses and hospital guard were occupied with other patients, Packard slipped from his room and ran into the bathroom locking the door.

He drew his razor and made four cuts in his neck and then, evidently fearing that he had not mortally wounded himself, he raised the sash and leaped to the concrete pavement below. He was found by Patrolman Moody and hurried back to the hospital where Dr. Richardson, the house physician, did everything in his power to save the man without avail.

Packard served through th eCivil War as a private of Company F, Eighth Regiment. He was admitted to the home from Lynn on November 9, 1904. He is survived by two sons, both residents of Lynn.

POOR PEOPLE CAUGHT IN CHELSEA BANK CRASH

Women Among Many Depositors Who Clamor at Doors For Their Savings.

LIABILITIES ARE HEAVY

street, Boston, are also depositors at the bank. Louis Schlosberg, the junior member of the firm, was in Chelsea early to-day.

"The firm of which I am a member have deposited in the Chelsea bank for years," said the son. "We have always had great confidence in the bank and believed that our money was safe there, as soon as it was turned over to the cashier. The news that the bank had closed was a great shock to my father and myself. The closing will inconvenience us, but we will be only one firm of hundreds whom it will affect. We will eventually get our money we think, but it may be a long time."

About 7 o'clock a squad of police came to the bank, two hours earlier than it was intended, and after the people had been reasoned with they went away. They were told to call about 9, when it is probable that some news of the fate of their savings will be given.

The determination to close the bank's doors was reached at a special meeting of the directors late yesterday afternoon. The United States authorities were notified, and Mr. Ewer went to Chelsea at 9 o'clock. All the available officials of the bank were summoned and all the clerks were called to the building. Four notaries public were called in.

The examiner began his work at once, and the attaches of the bank and the notaries worked on the books all through the night. The curtains were drawn tight, and all persons who went to the building in consequence of the stories they heard on the street were kept away.

When asked to make a statement regarding the bank's condition, Mr. Ewer said that it was impossible for him to do so.

BY DIRECTORS' VOTE.

"I can only say to you at this time," he stated, "that the First National Bank of Chelsea is closed. It has failed, and its business will be wound up forthwith. This is by vote of the directors to-day.

"I cannot tell you how serious this affair is," continued the examiner. "It will take me several days to make my examination of the bank's condition, and then my report will be made direct to the authorities at Washington. As bank examiner I am here to care for all interests."

Examiner Ewer is not inclined to believe that any criminality exists in the crash of the bank. Arrests are not expected. It is extremely doubtful, however, if the bank opens its doors again.

For some time there has been a steady transferal of large accounts to Boston banks, and the Chelsea bank was thus hampered for ready money. Two years ago the bank had deposits of at least $800,000, with a surplus of $130,000. The efforts to regain business to fill the gap of the many withdrawals have not been successful and for some time the bank has had a hard pull.

MARTIN FOUND TROUBLE.

Thomas Martin of Wakefield, one of the directors of the bank, is responsible for the present state of affairs. Mr. Martin has not been wholly satisfied with the way things have been going for some time past. President Hinckley has not been devoting all his time to the affairs of the institution, being engaged in other matters which took much of his time.

Mr. Martin concluded that Cashier Whittlesey needed assistance, so about three weeks ago he asserted his rights as a director of the bank and began the work of a rigid investigation into its affairs.

From this probing it is understood that Mr. Martin discovered that the bank was carrying loads of paper worth much less than its face value, and several investments had the appearance of having been poorly made.

After he had gone this far, Mr. Martin, it is said, summoned the bank examiner, Mr. Ewer, who arrived early yesterday. The two went over the larger investments, and it was then concluded to stop the business of the institution.

Defalcation rumors, starting as soon as the news of the bank's condition was made known, are denied by every one connected with the place.

The depositors, it is said, will ultimately be paid a large percentage of their deposits, if not all. Mr. Ewer makes this statement:

"I have been given to understand that to-morrow the Winnisimmet National Bank will advertise an offer to advance the depositors in the First National Bank, who are not stockholders in the latter, and who do not owe it anything, 50 per cent. of the amount they had on deposit with the First National Bank."

It was learned from a reliable source last night that the Provident Co-operative Bank of Chelsea had considerable interest at stake in the transactions of the First National Bank, and there was a feeling of uncertainty as to just how this institution would be affected by the trouble in the First National Bank.

TRANSFERS PROPERTY.

On Tuesday of this week President Hinckley of the First National bank deeded to the institution about $500,000 worth of real estate in several parcels. The most valuable is on Beacon street, Boston, near its junction with Commonwealth avenue, a parcel containing 54,785 feet and valued at $342,000. Another is on Deerfield street, near the first parcel. Its area is 14,008 feet and valuation $35,000. The third tract is bounded by Beacon, Manor and Munson streets, near Audubon Circle, where six lots have a total area of 17,895 feet and a taxable valuation of $77,200.

POOR PEOPLE ARE CAUGHT IN BANK FAILURE

For the greater part of the forty-two years that the First National Bank of Chelsea has been in existence it has been regarded as one of the most solid financial institutions in this section of the State. It has carried deposits of late years totalling nearly a million dollars.

Among the depositors are not only some of the big business men of Chelsea, Charlestown, Everett, Revere and other places, but hundreds of Hebrews have put their savings, mite by mite, into the hands of the bank officials. A large percentage of the clientage of the bank is made up of these people and of other working people of that section. The payment of a 6 per cent. dividend attracted many.

Established in 1864, the bank figures among the oldest national banks in the State. This reason, together with the well-known policy of conservatism and the business sense of those behind the institution, has given the place a strong advantage.

At no time in its history has the policy of the management been attacked. Among the business men of Chelsea the place has been regarded as the soundest institution, and by some its stability is held as high as that of the national treasury.

For this reason the news that it had been closed by the government came in the nature of a shock to all of Chelsea, not only to those who had used it as a banking institution, but also to those who believed it one of the bulwarks of the city.

The bank was capitalized for $300,000, all of which was paid in at the par value of $100 per share. According to the last report of the Treasury Department it had a surplus of $100,000, and carried undivided profits of $25,000. For years it has declared a 6 per cent. dividend, payable semi-annually in January and July, last month being no exception.

Facts in Bank Crash

Organized in 1850 as Tradesman's Bank.

Reorganized in 1864 as First National Bank of Chelsea.

Deposits amount to nearly $1,000,000. Capital, $300,000.

Has paid six per cent. interest for years, and did so at last dividend in July.

Clientage made up largely of small storekeepers. Of late business men with large accounts have transferred to Boston Banks.

Shortage of ready cash is now believed to be cause of crash.

Samuel Baxter Hinckley is president. He is also director of the State Cordage Company and the India Mutual Insurance Company.

BIG REALTY DEALS CAUSED CRASH

This story of the transactions of President Hinckley of the wrecked bank comes from Director Thomas Martin of the bank. It is repeated by his wife. Mr. Martin could not be found this morning. She said:

"My husband told me of the affairs of the bank last night. President Hinckley has borrowed money to too large an extent from the bank. With this money he has purchased real estate at Chestnut Hill. He has been borrowing money for the past two years, the greater part of his loans being taken out about six months ago.

SICKNESS INTERFERES WITH DEALS.

"Mr. Hinckley hoped to clear up about one million dollars in profits for his own pocket on these realty deals. A few weeks ago, however, he was taken very ill, probably fatally ill and he is now practically on his death bed. That prevented his visiting the people he had hoped to make purchasers of the lands he had bought and brought all of his real estate operations to a close. He has been unable to dispose of this land as he had planned on account of his sickness.

"Two weeks ago the directors of the bank went to see Mr. Hinckley, who is now confined to his bed, and tried to have him assign to them his equity in the property which he had purchased with the money he had borrowed from the bank. They did this to make everything straight with the bank.

"Mr. Hinckley promised to do this unless he could dispose of the real estate right away. The directors waited a week to hear from him, and getting no word went again last Friday to see him. This time they were accompanied by the bank's counsel.

SIGNED OVER ALL TO BANK'S CREDIT.

"While practically on his deathbed, Mr. Hinckley assigned over to the directors of the Chelsea bank his equities in the real estate he had purchased.

"The directors of the bank are said to have known of its condition about one month ago, but until Mr. Hinckley had signed his equity to his real estate over to them they feared to close the bank, thinking that it would mean a loss to the depositors.

"Since they have secured the equities the opinion of the directors and of United States Bank Examiner Ewer has been that it would be best for the bank to close until the real estate could be disposed of.

SAYS DEPOSITORS WILL GET ALL.

"My husband, yesterday, deposited $6,000 in the bank to meet his payroll to-day. My husband has absolutely no fear of the outcome in this whole matter. He says that if there is any loss it will be on the part of the stockholders alone. The account of every depositor he says, will be paid in full."

HINCKLEY HAS BIG REALTY INTERESTS

Sylvester Baxter Hinckley, president of the First National Bank of Chelsea, closed by the government last night, has other business interests, being also a director of the State Cordage Company and of the India Mutual Insurance Company. He has an office at 191 Washington street. He also has large real estate interests.

Among the directors is Thomas Martin. Mr. Martin is a member of the firm of the T. Martin and Brother Manufacturing Company, and of that concern he is the treasurer and a director.

George D. Emery, also a director, is likewise president and director of the firm of George D. Emery Company, lumber dealers. His office is at 44 Broadway, Chelsea.

C. Willis Gould, a director, is also treasurer of the Bay State Real Estate Association of Boston, director of the Citizens Mutual Insurance Company and secretary and treasurer of the Provident Co-operative Bank of Chelsea. His office is at No. 30 Kirby street.

Rufus Holman is the other director and Walter Whittlesey is the cashier.

President Hinckley was born in Yarmouth in 1841. He spent his boyhood in Chelsea, receiving his education there and finishing in a classical school at Newton.

In his early manhood he was in business successively in Washington, D. C., and New York. In 1865 he went into business with his father, Freeman Hinckley, under the firm name of Hinckley Bros. & Co., in the cordage manufacturing and selling business. He retired from business 14 years ago, occupying himself actively, however, in financial matters.

CRASH HITS FUNDS FOR REBUILDING JEWISH SYNAGOGUE

The Hebrew congregation whose synagogue at the corner of Fourth and Walnut streets, Chelsea, was burned four months ago, had $13,000 insurance money and other funds in the wrecked bank. Isaac Lipson, one of the leaders in the synagogue, says:

"This will delay the building of our new synagogue. We will have to wait until the bank's affairs are straightened out and we get whatever propotion of our [illegible] is saved for us, before we will feel warranted in continuing without building plans."

CHELSEA SAVINGS BANK STRONG, SAYS COMMISSIONER JAY

State Savings Bank Commissioner Pierre Jay to-day said to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN, in discussing the closing of the First National Bank of Chelsea:

"Of course, I know nothing official about National banks, they do not come under my jurisdiction, but the two savings banks here in Chelsea, I consider very strong; in fact, as good as any in the country. The County Savings Bank, for a new institution, is doing very well, having a surplus of 4 per cent. This is exceptionally creditable for so young a bank. The other, the Chelsea Savings Bank, has a surplus of 8 per cent., which is above the State average. People have no cause to feel worried over these savings institutions; they should rather congratulate themselves."

SAVINGS BANKS WILL LOSE BUT LITTLE BY WRECK OF NATIONAL

The savings banks of Chelsea will not be seriously affected by the failure of the First National Bank of that city, it is stated to-day. Rumors starting with the closing of the bank connected the two savings banks, the Chelsea Savings Bank and the County Savings Bank, with probable losses. It was soon proven that if these banks are losers it is only to a small extent.

When this phase of the bank's failure was brought to the attention of Bank Examiner Ewer, he at once questioned Cashier Whittlesey as to how much money was held by the First National for the savings banks of Chelsea. He was told that the entire sum would not amount to $5,000.

The Chelsea Savings Bank was formerly a heavy depositor with the First National, but withdrew practically all of its money about two years ago. Only small and short time deposits have been made there since. The County Savings Bank officers, too, were in a way to have a peculiarly close knowledge of the slightest falling off in the stability of the First National, and if any money is deposited with the troubled institution, the sum is insignificant.

This is reassuring to depositors in both of the Chelsea savings banks, who are mostly small wage-earners and specially prone to precipitate bank runs at times of disquieting stories regarding their deposits.

Several years ago a run was started on the Chelsea Savings Bank in consequence of the financial trouble of a man whose name was similar to that of the president of the bank, but who was in no way connected with the president or his family. Many of the depositors in the bank were comparatively poor Hebrews, and they fell into a veritable panic.

400 PILGRIMS SEEK CURES AT NOTED SHRINE

Leave To-night for Ste. Anne de Beaupre Under Guidance of Father McCafferty.

Nearly four hundred devout Roman Catholics of Boston, many of them inspired by pious confidence that they will obtain relief from bodily ills, will leave Boston to-night on the annual pilgrimage to the famous shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, near Quebec, Canada.

The Rev. Father J. J. McCafferty of St. Thomas' Church, Jamaica Plain, will be the spiritual leader of the pilgrimage. The pilgrims include not only many people from his parish, but from other parishes in Boston and Southern New England as well. In the liberal spirit which characterizes his ministrations, Father McCafferty has announced that he does not exclude persons of any creed from the pilgrimage. The only thing he desires is that all who go with the party shall do so in a suitable spirit of piety and reverence. A number of Protestants will be included among the travelers.

Leave at 7 O'Clock To-night.

The number of tickets for this pilgrimage is limited to less than 400. The rush of applicants was so great that over 200 were disappointed, this circumstance alone indicating the general faith in the efficacy of the famous shrine.

The pilgrims will leave the North Station at 7 o'clock to-night on the Boston & Maine's Southern division. A special train of seven pullmans and two coaches will be used. The pilgrims will awake in Montreal, where they will board a specially chartered steamer for the 200-mile trip down the St. Lawrence to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, arriving there Sunday morning.

Ste. Anne de Beaupre means Saint Anne of the Beautiful Prairie, the name being derived from the town's location on a level plat of ground in the beautiful valley of the St. Lawrence, opposite the Isle d'Orleans.

For 250 years the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre has existed there. Such pious fame has become attached to the shrine that Pope Leo ordered it elevated to the dignity of a basilica. Its cures have become noted throughout the Christian world. The Holy Fathers in charge of the shrine have never allowed any data concerning cures to be given out by themselves. They depend only on the voluntary testimony of worshippers who have been benefited there. Of this testimony there is no lack, thousands of afflicted pilgrims having willingly given voice to having been healed through the grace of the shrine.

Three Days' Devotion.

After arriving at Ste. Anne de Beaupre Sunday morning the pilgrims will first enter the tridium, or "three days' devotion." Tuesday morning a high mass will be celebrated at the shrine.

Then the Boston Pilgrims will re-embark on their special steamer and go to Quebec for a four hours' stop. Thence they will return up the St. Lawrence to Montreal. They will leave Montreal August 22 on a special train over the Green Mountain route for the return to Boston. Those who desire may stop over at Burlington to take a side trip to the Catholic Summer School at Cliff Haven.

CITY TEAMSTER HEAT VICTIM NEAR HOSPITAL

Falls From Seat, Striking Head Violently Against the Pavement.

While driving an ash cart in front of the City Hospital to-day, William Powers, aged 55 years, an employe in the Sanitary Department of the City, was overcome by the heat and fell from the seat striking his head violently against the pavement. He was carried into the hospital where it was ascertained that he had received a severe scalp wound and possibly a concussion of the brain. He will recover.

Heat prostrations to-day must arise from weakened physical conditions of those overcome, for the temperature is far from oppressive. The humidity, too, is but 54 per cent., or 16 degrees below the normal. A light east wind is blowing in from the ocean at the rate of five miles an hour.

Weather conditions are much the same to-day all over the United States. The average temperatures range from 70 to 74 degrees. The hottest places reported are Galveston, Texas, and Key West, Fla., where the thermometers indicates 82 degrees of heat. Calgary, British North West, is the coldest place, the temperature being but 42 degrees.

The temperatures to-day are:
Midnight, 69; 1 a. m., 67; 2 a. m., 67; 3 a. m., 67; 4 a. m., 67; 5 a. m., 66; 6 a. m., 67; 7 a. m., 68; 8 a. m., 69; 9 a. m., 73; 10 a. m., 72; 11 a. m., 72; 12 noon, 72.

When you have a Bad Breath—Wake up!

WAKE Up! It's time to take a Cascaret,
—When the friend you speak to turns his face the other way,
—When your tongue is coated,
—When you have Heartburn, Belching, Acid Risings in throat,
—When Pimples begin to peep out,
—When your Stomach Gnaws or Burns,
—That's the time to check coming Constipation, Indigestion and Dyspepsia.

One single Candy Cascaret will do it if taken at the right minute, just when you first feel the need of it.

Do it now!

* * *

Cascarets don't Purge, nor Weaken, nor waste Digestive Juices in flooding out the Bowels, like Salts, Castor Oil, "Physics."

But,—they act like Exercise on the Muscles that shrink and expand the Intestines, thus pushing the Food on Naturally to its Finish.

When your Bowel-Muscles grow flabby they need Exercise to strengthen them—not "Physic" to pamper them.

Cascarets provide the bracing tone that is needed specifically by the Bowel-muscles.

* * *

Then carry the little ten-cent "Vest Pocket" box constantly with you, and take a Cascaret whenever you suspect you need it.

One Cascaret at a time will promptly cleanse a foul Breath, or Coated Tongue, thus proving clearly its ready, steady, sure, but mild and effective action.

Have the little 10c Emergency box of Cascarets constantly near you.

All Druggists sell them—over ten million boxes a year, for six years past.

Be very careful to get the genuine, made only by the Sterling Remedy Company and never sold in bulk. Every tablet stamped "CCC." a750

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE MEETS TODAY

Gaston-Quincy Machine to Plan for the State Convention and Campaign.

OPPOSITION SLATE RUMOR

Plans to control the Democratic State convention in the interest of Whitney and Sullivan will be laid at the meeting of the State machine this afternoon by the Gaston-Quincy element of the committee.

The meeting will be held at the Revere House and will be called to order at 1 o'clock. The usual notices have been sent to all members to be present, but special tips have been passed to every trust member of the committee, calling his attention to the fact that this will be a most important gathering and that it is imperative he should make it a point to attend.

Besides setting the date for the State convention, fixing the time for the caucuses, making out the apportionment of delegates to the various conventions, a slate of State convention officials will be arranged. The most important details will be the selection of the temporary and permanent presiding officers of the convention and the chairman of the committee on resolutions, who will write the platform, and fixing the apportionment.

Deny That All Is Arranged.

The "leaders" of the State machine deny that they have already arranged all the details or that a programme which calls only for officials friendly to the State street ticket of Whitney and Sullivan has been mapped out. But there are members of the opposition wing of the committee who have reason to believe a slate will be sprung that will be forced through despite all the protest and trouble they may make.

Of the fifty-eight members of the State committee only fourteen are figured in the column friendly to District Attorney John B. Moran. The other forty-four, it is said, can be relied upon to do the bidding of Quincy, when it is known that he is carrying out the orders of Colonel Gaston.

Who the "slate" candidate for permanent chairman will be is being kept a dark secret, but it is the general impression in Democratic political circles that ex-Congressman John R. Thayer of Worcester will be the man.

Another rumor that will not down is that former Governor William L. Douglas will be named as the chairman of the resolutions committee, and thus have a free hand in drafting the platform.

Would Like Douglas.

That the Big Chief and his Right Hand Man would like to ring in the former Governor for this job is well understood, but the friends of Mr. Douglas are of the opinion that he will not care to be the father of the platform that would have to be submitted to Quincy and Whitney for revision.

Quincy has heard a demand from some place that, after he has called the convention to order, he continue to wield the gavel in the capacity of temporary president. In a fight over the selection of a permanent president of the convention it would be a great advantage for the trust element to have in the chair as the arbiter of disputes and the umpire with cold-blooded nerve such a splendid specimen of the human icicle as Josiah Quincy.

That there will be a contest over this position is a certainty, if the slate of the "leaders" goes through to-day at the machine meeting.

Quincy, the nominal boss of the machine; Arthur Lyman, chairman of the executive committee, and Daniel F. Buckley, treasurer, have had their heads together several times this week, and there is not the slightest doubt but that they have arranged for all the motions that are to be made to-day.

Nice Scheme Worked Up.

Realizing that the hunt for Whitney and Sullivan delegates in the "country" districts is to be a hard job, and despairing of securing more than a handful of the Boston delegates, a nice scheme has been worked up to keep down the size of the State convention. It will then be so much easier to win some of the doubtful ones, by the West End and Pipe Line methods.

It is planned to fix the basis of representation at one delegate for every 300 votes cast for General Bartlett for Governor last year, instead of one for every 200 votes, the usual basis on the vote for the candidates for Governor the preceding year. By this apportionment the representation of the cities would be greatly reduced and most of the towns would be limited to one delegate. It would then be in order to send out lobbyists through the districts corralling the "easy" delegates.

It might be said in passing that "Ben" Gibbey, one of the slickest lobbyists in the State, has already come into the field as a Whitney agent.

STENSLAND BELIEVED TO BE IN MOBILE

Chicago Police Expect Arrest of Fugitive Banker Any Minute.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—Chief of Police Collins said that he expects to receive word any minute of the arrest at Mobile, Ala., of Paul O. Stensland, fugitive of the Milwaukee avenue State Bank of Chicago.

Mrs. Inga Sandberg, daughter of Stensland, has arrived here from her home at Madison, Wis. She is said to have told the authorities all she knows of her father's affairs, especially those relating to Mrs. Leone Langdon Key, the statuesque and dashing brunette to whom her father was so generous.

"I do not know where my father has gone," she said, "and I do not know much about his financial affairs. I knew he spent much money on women. He installed in his home Leone Langdon Key, whom I introduced to him, and this compelled me to go to Madison and teach music."

As a result of the Stensland Bank collapse, there has been so heavy a run on the Garfield Park Bank, a small institution, that it was to-day placed in the hands of a receiver. It is asserted that the bank and its president, Ellis E. Drake, are insolvent. Mr. Drake denies this statement.

SAY LOVE BUREAU 'WIDOWS' RAN FINANCIAL SWINDLES

MRS. IZELLA BROWN OF MATRIMONIAL SYNDICATE AND VICTOR BROWN

Deal by Which $50,000 Was Taken from Two Millionaires Alleged.

Police Seek Well Knokn Wall Street Leaders for Evidence on Transaction.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Revelations made to Assistant United States District Attorney Carmody to-day are said to have shown that Mrs. Bina F. Verrault-Hamilton and Mrs. Izella Brown, the "Cassie L. Chadwicks of New York," were in alliance with at least one "get-rich-quick" concern which secured $50,0000 from two Wall street millionaires.

The startling accusation is made that these two women, beautiful and alluring, were the brains of the "Kentucky Wood Alcohol, Mining & Manufacturing Company," of No. 88 Wall street, and that they resorted to devices outrivalling even the ingenuity of the Ohio woman to inveigle Wall street brokers into their schemes.

Seeking Financial Men.

Assistant District Attorney Carmody has all his available men busy to-day seeking two men known in the financial district as well as such people as John W. Gates and also a millionaire Brooklyn brewer to secure their stories as evidence against the New York "Cassie L. Chadwicks."

According to the information furnished the United States District Attorney's office, the two women were given credentials as stenographers by the "Kentucky Wood Alchol Mining and Manufacturing Company, of which Mrs. Brown's two brothers were officers. By means of these credentials the two women became acquainted with a number of wealthy brokers, and the friendship of these men was cultivated by the two women in a social way.

The brokers, it is alleged, becamevisitors to the handsome residence of the two women rented at No. 323 West Eighty-second street. They were dazzled at the magnificence they saw displayed in the house, but to bring them to the point of investing in the bogus Kentucky concern spiritualistic seances or wine and gambling revels were resorted to.

Women Return Home.

While a search was being made to-day for the big Wall street men, it was learned that Mrs. Verrault-Hamilton and Mrs. Browne returned to the Eighty-second street house last night, and although the denied themselves to callers to-day were still there.

A great quantity of mail for both women, under several names, as well as for Mrs. Alice Moulton, was received to-day. Some of the letters were written by lawyers, while one, addressed to Mrs. Brown, was written by a man stopping at the Hotel Belmont.

Bad people made good. A young woman who couldn't help telling an untruth made honest as the day. A boy who loved to torture dumb animals is now the gentlest lad in his home city. How it was done graphically related in NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN.

GEN. 'JOE' WHEELER'S DAUGHTER TO WED

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Announcement was made to-day of the engagement of Miss Carrie Peyton Wheeler, youngest daughter of the late General Joseph Wheeler, and Gordon M. Buck of New York. The marriage will be celebrated at the country home of the Wheelers at Wheeler, Ala., in October. Mr. Buck is a Southerner and has resided here for several years. He is a lawyer.

LONGSHOREMEN PLAN A STRIKE OF THOUSANDS

All Metropolitan Co. Employes Must be Taken Back, They Declare.

Awaiting the result of the conference of the district council of the Longshoremen's Union, which may mean a general tie-up on the wharves of Boston, the 200 striking longshoremen of the Metropolitan Steamship Company are to-day meeting and discussing the situation in their headquarters in Roughan Hall, Charlestown. In the meantime, City Freight Agent Frank Apsey of the Metropolitan company claims that he has filled the places of the strikers, and that the issue is at an end.

John R. Dalton, master workman of Longshoremen's Assembly No. 1,062, declares that all of the strikers must be taken back or none will go. In that even, he declares that Boston will see a strike of longshoremen, freight handlers and teamsters, the proportion of which has never been seen here before.

"To Keep Things Moving."

City Freight Agent Apsey said to-day to a reporter for the BOSTON AMERICAN: "I have secured 200 men to take the places of the strikers. We are having no trouble at all. The strikers have given us no trouble nor do we anticipate any. All of our men are not experienced longshoremen, but we have enough of them to keep things moving very satisfactorily.

"We have had no difficulty in loading and unloading our boats. The steamer James F. Whitney came in on time this morning and is being unloaded. She will receive her cargo in time to depart on regular schedule this evening. Our steamer, Henry M. Whitney left last night with a full cargo, on time."

The striking longshoremen at their headquarters in Charlestown express themselves as absolutely confident of winning their fight. They are not thinking of picketing, and declare that the Metropolitan Company has its hands full, and more than full.

Say Strike Will Follow.

The 200 men of the Metropolitan Steamship Company struck because five members of their union were discharged for failing to report for duty. These men claimed that they were not able to work. The longshoremen assert that he men were discharged simply because they were members of the union. They say that a general strike will follow if the men are not taken back. Should this eventuate it would mean that 8,000 other longshoremen and freight handlers would quit work and that at least 6,000 teamsters would follow.

DIVIDENDS ON PACIFIC LINES; PRICES JUMP

Southern and Union Pacific Stock Up Six and Eight Points Respectively.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—All Wall Street was thrown into wild excitement to-day by the announcement of a dividend of five per cent. on Southern Pacific and ten per cent. on Union Pacific. The dividend will be paid semi-annually.

This is the first dividend ever paid on Southern Pacific.

The result of the announcement was a leap of eight points in Union Pacific and six points in Southern Pacific. Union Pacific, which was selling at 163 early in the morning went to 11. Southern Pacific, which was selling at eighty-three, jumped up to eighty-nine. These dividends mean the distribution of about $10,000,000 a year in Southern Pacific. Union Pacific, as the chief stock holder will get above $5,000,000 of that sum.

The Union Pacific dividend calls for the distribution of about $20,000,000 a year. This dividend is the regular semi-annual 3 per cent. on the railroad's earnings and 2 per cent. extra made up out of investments. This investment dividend is provided for entirely by the Southern Pacific payment.

The entire market was strong, but dealings were almost entirely in the Southern and Union Pacific stocks. Union Pacific and Southern Pacific came out in blocks of from 1,000 to 5,000. At the same time Pennsylvania rose ¾, to 139½.

DANCES AND RUNS ON WIRE 100 FEET HIGH

Marvelous Performance of Tight-Rope Walker Thrills Wonderland Throngs.

SENSATIONAL PROGRAMME

Of all the people in Wonderland, James E. Hardy, the Wizard of the Air, seemed perfectly cool, happy, fearless and contented while performing last night. Women shivered and turned away, but were compelled to look again. Men paled as he took his chances with death.

As though walking the tight rope, hopping, skipping, leaping and dancing were not enough, this master of his art actually got tired and, turning around, walked to one of his little landing places and got himself his tiny white chair and carried it out into the centre of that thread. There he placed the chair, then he sat down in it and rested himself, wiping his face and fanning himself, the unabashed figure of composure, while death grinned at him from below.

Tiring of his leisure, Hardy climbed to the seat and sat down on the back of his chair and stretched out his legs. Then he stood on the seat of the chair. Climbing down into it again he actually tilted back in the chair and rocked himself like a man does on his piazza after the day's work is over.

Asleep on a Thin Wire.

But even this was not strenuous enough. He picked up his chair and balancing pole and trotted back to the landing place. Leaving the chair there Hardy raced back to the centre of the wire and stood on his head just to let the crowd, which by this time had grown to enormous proportions, see how little he minded it. Then he lay down on the wire and took a snooze.

Up again, the man who dared Niagara ten years ago by crossing its hideous gorge on the slender wire, hurried to the other side and cut loose a bicycle he had tied there. Vaulting into its saddle he rode boldly out to the centre of the suspended rope, brought the wheel to a pause and calmly took a survey of all Wonderland.

Then he backed the cycle for a few rods and finally, to the relief of everyone who was watching him, rode clear across to the other side and dismounted as though he had just performed the most ordinary trick.

Even this did not seem to satisfy Hardy, for he next walked the rope with his feet in clumsy buckets. Again he paused, then jumped into a cask, blindfolded his eyes and thrust a bag over his head and walked from one side of the space to the other. Bowing to the people, Hardy clambered down his monopole ladder to the time of a lively two-step played by the band.

It was certainly a great and masterly exhibition of tight rope walking, and one that caused everyone to feel easier when it was over.

Crowds on the Increase.

Each day this week the crowds at Wonderland have been astonishing even the management. The bright, bracing days have proved how the people of Greater Boston prize this great aggregation of attractions. The average of the attendance is steadily mounting as the season grows. The drawing cards of Wonderland still attract with more and more force, and the appreciation of the amusement loving public is being spoken in form more convincing than praise.

The great Fire and Flames show is crowded every time the doors are opened. The trains on the scenic railway were crowded from the time the grounds opened until they were closed last night. "Wild Bill" Kennedy's cowgirls and cowboys and Indians had packed audiences at every performance. How many found their way to Hell Gate there is no telling.

SUMMER GIRLS ABANDON SOCKS

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Another startling departure has been taken by the Long Branch "Summer girls"—that is, those of them who are proud of their limbs. The new wrinkle is to go in the surf, not with half hose or socks, but with no covering from the knee down. Of course, sandals are worn, because the sand and shells don't respect even the daintiest of feet or the pinkest of toes.

The stockingless bathing girl has created a sensation. Of course, the more conservative bathers are shocked by the departure.

GIVE GOVERNMENT BACK TO THE PEOPLE

Here is the resolution adopted at the meeting of the Independence League of New Bedford:

Whereas, the citizens of New Bedford, realizing the existence of a non-partisan alliance between political bossism and private monopoly, resulting in the present reign of graft, and,

Whereas, the perpetuity of good government as established and maintained by Jefferson and Lincoln is thereby threatened, be it

Resolved, That we, citizens of New Bedford, heartily indorse the platform of the Independence League of Massachusetts, and pledge ourselves to do all in our power to restore the government into the hands of the people, as designed by the founders of our government.

LOWELL AT ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING JOINS LEAGUE

Big Rally Arranged by Latest Branch in Independence Movement—To Invite Prominent Speakers.

LOWELL, Aug. 17.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the signers of the membership roll of the local branch of the Independence League of Massachusetts was held at the New American House last evening. Great interest and enthusiasm was manifested in its formation.

The meeting was called to order by William N. Osgood, who represented the State league. He outlined the objects of the organization and reviewed its progress in the organization of branch leagues throughout Massachusetts. Men who formerly affiliated with the Democratic and Republican parties were present and participated in the meeting. An interesting discussion followed, addresses being made by Joseph F. Convery, president of the local Central Labor Union; M. A. Lee; Frank M. Dell; Frank Connolly and several others.

To Hold Mass Meeting.

It was voted to form a local branch of the League in Lowell, a temporary organization being effected with John J. Maloney temporary president and M. A. Lee temporary secretary. It was also voted to hold an open meeting of the new League at Spinners' Hall, No. 22 Middle street, next Thursday evening, and a committee was appointed to secure prominent speakers from out of town to address the meeting upon the objects of the League and to present some phases of the great movement which is now spreading throughout the country in behalf of popular government, and the restoration to the people of rights that have been taken from them by representatives who have proved false to their trust and enemies of the public welfare.

Power for Good.

There is every indication that the local branch of the Independence League formed last evening in one of the largest cities in the Commonwealth will grow very rapidly and become a power for good in the city of Lowell and surrounding towns.

SOUVENIR CARDS TELL WEDDING

A chapter story of their elopement and wedding told piecemeal on postal cards is the way Fred Whitney of Somerville and Florence Jewel of Worcester have broken the news. They were married in Providence.

The first of the cards was received by Mrs. F. W. Whitney of Arlington. On it was a picture of the Providence City Hall and the inscription, "The first place visited." Later came a colored engraving of a church, and on it the words, "Where the knot was tied." In the same mail Lillian Whitney, sister of the young man, received a postal representation of Crescent Park, Providence, containing the words, "It's all over but the shouting."

Mr. Whitney and Miss Jewel left Mrs. Whitney's home in Arlington on Wednesday, ostensibly to attend a theatre in Boston. Instead they took a train to Providence.

SUFFERED AGONIES FOR FOUR YEARS

Whole Foot Nothing But Proud Flesh—Tried Different Physicians and All Kinds of Ointments—Could Walk Only With Crutches—Ohio Man Says:

"CUTICURA REMEDIES THE BEST ON EARTH"

"In the year 1899 the side of my right foot was cut off from the little toe down to the heel, and the physician who had charge of me was trying to sew up the side of my foot, but with no success. When he found out that wouldn't work, he began trying to heal the wound with all kinds of ointment, until at last my whole foot and way up above my calf was nothing but proud flesh. I suffered untold agonies for four years, and tried different physicians and all kinds of ointments. I could walk only with crutches. It is sixteen months ago since I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment for my limb and foot. The first two months the Cuticura Remedies did not seem to work, but I kept on using them both. In two weeks afterwards I saw a change in my limb. Then I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment often during the day and kept it up for seven months, when my limb was healed up just the same as if I never had trouble.

"It is eight months now since I stopped using Cuticura Remedies, the best on God's earth. I am working at the present day, after five years of suffering. The cost of Cuticura Ointment and Soap was only $6; but the doctors' bills were more like $600. You can publish my name and refer any one to write to me about Cuticura Remedies. I will answer all letters if postage is enclosed. John M. Lloyd, 718 S. Arch Ave., Alliance, Ohio, June 27, 1905."

FOREMAN'S ORDER DROVE MAN TO AWFUL DEATH IN STEAMING VAT IN DYEING PLANT

Witness of Bleachery Tragedy Says Victim Did Not Wish to Enter—Police Seek William Connelly.

Boston sleuths, the Waltham police and officers in other cities and towns are still searching for William Connolly to question him about the tragic death of Genaro Quagliozzi, which occurred recently at the Waltham Bleachery and Dye House, where Connolly is employed. Quagliozzi, it is alleged, was forced into a big bleaching vat and the steam turned on him until he was so horribly scalded that he died within a few hours after having been pulled out by Francisco Colante, a fellow workman.

The inquest at Waltham yesterday was brought to a sudden close when it was found that Connolly had not appeared, and the hearing is continued until next Monday.

Since the strike at the bleachery, several months ago, a number of Italians have been pressed into service, and among these were Quagliozzi and Colante.

Colante, who says he was the only one to witness the tragedy, told the following story to a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter:

"Quagliozzi and myself had been working most of the day, Aug. 6, together. About noon hour Connolly came to Quagliozzi and asked him to clean out something. Either Connolly made a mistake or Quagliozzi misunderstood him, for my friend went to the vat and crawled through the hole. The steam was not turned on at the time, but soon I heard a terrible scream, and rushing to the vat I saw the head of Quagliozzi a few feet below the hole, scalding.

"I lay down and reached through the hole, grabbed him under the arms and pulled him through the opening. I looked for Connolly, but remembered that he had disappeared just after giving his order, and I have not seen him since. I could see that Quagliozzi did not want to go down into the hole in the first place, but he was afraid of the boss."

George A. Jordan, one of the agents of the company, said that Quagliozzi went down the hole on his own accord, that the steam had been turned on fully twenty minutes before the descent was made and that there was no boiling water in the vat at the time.

There were a number of workmen near by at the time of the tragedy who heard the screams, but when they arrived on the scene the unconscious form had been pulled from the hole.

REYES TRAITOR, SAYS MENDOGA, EX-MINISTER

Diplomat Declares President of Columbia Was in Secret Pact With Panama.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—There has just been made public an open letter written by Diego Mendoza, recently Minister of Colombia at Washington, to a friend in Bogota who is a member of the National Assembly, in which the diplomat, in language plain and unmistakable, denounces President Reyes of Colombia as a traitor to his country intimates that he is a forger and accuses him of extreme bad faith.

Never, perhaps, has there been penned such a remarkable and scathing denunciation of the head of a government by a diplomat nominated by the man whom he attacked.

Senor Mendoza, who has but recently returned here from London, where, as a member of the Colombian Congress, he represented Colombia at the session of the Interparliamentary Union, declares in his letter that President Reyes has, for financial reasons, entered into a secret agreement with President Amador of Panama, under which the former department of Colombia assumes a part of the Colombian debt, thereby practically abandoning Colombia's rights on the Isthmus, and this, he says, stamps Reyes as a traitor.

He tells, also, of President Reyes's supposed financial interest in the lighthouse at Colon, and asserts that the president sent to Washington an agent authorized to sell the lighthouse to the United Sates government for $100,000, for which service he promised the agent a commission of 10 per cent.

He explains at some length and in the most vigorous Castilian how the secret negotiations of President Reyes made impossible the success of his own mission at Washington, which, he says, was the honorable solution of the secession of Panama from Colombia.

300 SLAIN OR WOUNDED IN TERRORIST RIOTS

ORGIE OF BLOOD IN JEWISH DISTRICT OF WARSAW—BOMB FOR POLICE.

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—This city, the centre of the terrorist war on the Romanoff dynasty and its bureaucracy, resembles a battlefield to-day after the violence and bloodshed that began Wednesday.

Shocking and pitiful scenes are witnessed in all parts of the town.

At least 300 persons were clubbed or bayonetted. Scores were killed and their bodies left lying in the streets. The hospital surgeons, worn out by their labors, were unable to attend to cases, and wounds diagnosed as fatal were left to take their course.

The scenes in the morgues were horrible. In one morgue thirty-two civilian bodies were seen. The people have grown callous with so much death. A young girl laughed heartily at the sight of a woman whose brain had been torn out by a bomb.

Slaughter in Hebrew Quarter.

Last night resulted in an orgie of blood in the Jewish quarter. The disturbance was due to the determination of the revolutionists to revenge the arrest of workmen. The firing began at 10 o'clock in the morning. The first shots were fired by a young Hebrew, who killed a soldier and a policeman and then fled into a shop. A soldier pursued the man and fired, killing the woman who kept the shop.

In many places the military fired on crowds indiscriminately, and the exact number killed has not yet been ascertained. Bodies picked up in the streets continue to be brought to the morgue, which is guarded.

Strong patrols of from twenty to fifty cavalrymen are riding through the streets, searching passersby for arms. The streets in the Jewish quarters are deserted, because the military patrols knock down with the butts of their rifles everybody they meet.

A bomb was thrown at 2 o'clock in the afternoon into the windows of the police station, wounding seventeen policemen and twenty passersby.

One hundred and fifty persons are reported to have been wounded by rifle fire and thirty by bombs. A boy threw a bomb at 9 o'clock this evening into a procession which was passing through Cholodna street on its return from a pilgrimage to the shrine of the Holy Virgin at Rokitno, near Warsaw, wounding two of the processionists. The explosion attracted a patrol of infantry, who, without warning, fired a volley, wounding thirty persons.

An outbreak occurred to-day in the central Warsaw prison among the political offenders confined there. The wardens, being unable to cope with the disturbance, were forced to call in half a company of the Perniva regiment, who subdued the outbreak by a volley which killed two and wounded ten of the prisoners.

5 Mutineers Executed.

DESHLAGAR, Russia, Aug. 17.—A field court-martial to-day condemned to death a sergeant and four soldiers as the ringleaders of the recent mutiny and murder of officers. The sentence was at once executed.

ODESSA, Aug. 17.—Governor General Kaulbars is daily receiving threats of assassination and has ordered the high military authorities not to go out, saying that it only means that they will be murdered. A party of anarchists raided the railway station to-day, killing an inspector and three policemen.

YALTA, Aug. 17.—A plot to pillage several villas here was discovered yesterday by a police commissary. One of the conspirators was shot by the commissary, whereupon the second drew a bomb from his pocket, lighted the fuse with his cigarette and started running. He slipped and the bomb exploded, fatally injuring him. His last words were: "You see we know how to die."

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Six members were fined $10 each by Carpenters' District Council at last night's meeting for working Saturday afternoons in Everett, Chelsea and Revere. The strike in Somerville for union wages is practically over, it was reported, and the men who went out have returned to work. Two firms, Andrews & Son and W. Calkins, still refuse to pay union wages.

The referendum vote taken by the thirty-two affiliated local unions and branches on the question of parading Labor Day was lost by a small margin, and the Council will not march in a body. Local Union No. 33, the largest union in the Council, has decided to parade, however, and has extended an invitation to all carpenters to appear in its ranks.

Replying to a letter received from the Council in regard to specifying union conditions on the buildings to be erected at the Jamestown Exposition, the Massachusetts Commission stated that nothing had been done as yet, but the matter would be kept under advisement. Carpenters' Unions in other States are also requesting the Commissioners to take up the matter.

Word was received from the Navy Department at Washington stating that they would endeavor to have the eight-hour day strictly adhered to at the Charlestown Navy Yard. It was reported that the Newton Carpenters' District Council had effected a settlement with a large builder who has been on the unfair list for years.

A communication was received from the Department of Commerce and Labor regarding naturalization laws, stating that the new forms will be issued September 1 and that the act goes into effect October 1. In the opinion of officials of the Council, the process of naturalization will be more complex and expensive than heretofore.

WAGE EARNERS' CLUB MEETS.

The Boston Wage Earners' Central Club will hold the most important meeting since its formation to-night in St. Andrew's Hal, Wells Memorial Building. President John E. Potts announces that a large number of members will be obligated and action taken on numerous candidates who are on the waiting list. The question of naturalization and other important matters will also be acted upon.

CARMEN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

With the funds left over from their recent excursion to Providence, the Readville car-shop employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad held a smoke talk and entertainment last night in Caledonia Hall, No. 45 Eliot street. William Hinch was chairman of the committee of arrangements, Harry Richardson, secretary and Augustus Murphy, treasurer.

The entertainment consisted of songs by William Lyons, Timothy Brown, William Hickey, D. J. Murphy and Mr. Gately, recitations by William Clemens and P. F. Reynolds, and violin solos by Patrick McConnell.

LYNN CLUB MEETS TO-NIGHT.

An important meeting of the Lynn Wage Earners' Club will be held to-night in Lasters' Hall, Lynn, at 8 o'clock. There are now forty organizations affiliated with the club with a total membership of over 4,000. The latest organizations to join are Grocery Clerks' Union No. 131, Boot and Shoe Workers' Union No. 99 and the Building Trades Council. A committee has been appointed to form clubs in every ward. The platform has been sent to all candidates for State offices and Congress for their indorsement or rejection, with a request for an early reply.

LABOR NOTES.

Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers will hold a smoke-talk Labor Day afternoon at No. 195 Washington street.

Market and Commission House Teamsters' Union No. 631 expects to have 500 men in line on the Labor Day parade appropriately uniformed.

A mass meeting to organize the tin workers of Boston and vicinity will be held to-night at 8 o'clock at No. 164 Canal street.

The Carpenters' Grand Council of Eastern Massachusetts meets to-night in Machinists' Hall, No. 417 Main street, Woburn. Reports will be made on trade conditions throughout the district.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Mrs. Leslie Carter-Payne has signed a contract by which she will become a star under the management of Charles B. Dillingham for the next five years. Williams and Reynolds, who were well dressed, had four dress suit cases with them, containing clothing valued at about $175.

FOSTER AND WILSON OFF TO GLASGOW

Labor Delegates Bidden Rousing Farewell at Wharf To-day.

With an enthusiastic send-off by his colleagues and other friends Frank K. Foster, delegate from the A. F. of L. to the British trades congress in Liverpool, sailed to-day on the Allan liner Laurentian for Glasgow, accompanied by his little daughter, Florence. James Wilson, the New York delegate, and Mrs. Wilson sailed with the Fosters.

Mrs. Foster was at the wharf. Though she was pleased at the distinction accorded her husband, she was sorrowful at the thought of being separated from her family, and wept freely as the time came to kiss them good-by.

Labor Leaders on Tug.

A delegation of labor leaders chartered a tug from Fort Hill Wharf, steamed over to the Mystic Docks to the side of the Laurentian and sailed down the harbor to see the steamer out to sea. The tug chugged away alongside the big steamer and the tug party exchanged farewells with the Fosters and Wilsons all the way down the harbor.

Among those on the tug were Secretary Dennis D. Driscoll of the State Branch, A. F. of L., Alfred Freeman, William Williams, Morris Bang and other labor leaders.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald sent a big bouquet to the steamer for Mr. Foster, accompanied by a message of good-bye.

Will Go First to Glasgow.

Mr. Foster and his daughter will spend a week in Glasgow. Then they will go to Edinburgh, thence to Glasgow, where Mr. Foster will attend the trades congress. After that the father and daughter will tour Germany and France, returning to Boston late in October.

Among the other passengers on the Laurentian were Professor T. N. Corner, the Rev. John T. Kerr, LL.D., of Glasgow, C. E. Blair, the noted Canadian athlete, and Mrs. Blair, and John Randolph, of New York, the writer of sacred songs.

A thirteen-year-old boy drove a big touring car 500 miles from Portland, Me., to Boston yesterday, at an average speed of seventeen miles an hour, without mishap. He was Alfred H. Hubbard, son of H. W. Hubbard of Middletown, Ct.

"We had a good trip, but the roads up there were on the bum," said the boy as a summary of the long drive.

Smash Illegal Railway Trust!

The BOSTON AMERICAN to-day made formal application to the Attorney General of Massachusetts that he bring immediate action in the Supreme Judicial Court to force the New Haven Railroad to disgorge the street railways it has swallowed in violation of the laws of the Commonwealth.

This is the most important step that has been taken in the warfare to prevent the formation of a [illegible] railway trust in Engla

Action of Railroad Relieves Attorney-General Malone of an Unpleasant Duty.

By disposing of its holdings in Massachusetts street railway lines to a new holding company, a "voluntary association," the membership of which is a mystery, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has spared its friend, Attorney-General Dana Malone, a most unpleasant duty.

Sixty-four days ago the BOSTON AMERICAN filed with Attorney-General Malone a writ of information setting forth that the New Haven road had absorbed and was grabbing Massachusetts trolley roads in violation of the statutes and petitioned him to bring suit in the Supreme Court of Equity to enforce the law and compel the railroad to disgorge.

Promising that he would attend to the case just as soon as he was through with the investigation of the Legislature, the Attorney-General held out the promise that he was anxious to proceed. Immediately after the prorogation of the Legislature he attempted to squirm out of the work on the technical ground that the writ and petition should have been filed with the Railroad Commissioners. Day after day the BOSTON AMERICAN has called attention to the fact that the Attorney-General had not acted and has called upon him to explain why he has delayed. Now comes the explanation.

New Haven Has "Sold Out."

Taking advantage of the delay, President Mellen of the New Haven road has "sold out," so he says in his naive way, to a voluntary association.

Before the joint committees of the Legislature on railroads and street railways at the anti-merger hearing Mellen boasted that he had the very best legal advice to the effect that the holdings of the New Haven road were entirely legal, and that his companies had done nothing unlawful. The latest reversal from that attitude is complete. He now admits that he does not want to test the law. His present attitude is said by lawyers to be the best evidence that he knew he was acting unlawfully in holding the trolley roads through intermediate companies controlled by the New Haven Railroad.

It is the opinion of the very best lawyers that President Mellen's crawl is the best indication that the Attorney-General could have upheld the force of the existing law if he had promptly proceeded on the petition of the BOSTON AMERICAN and had not played into the hands of the railroad.

This sharp turn on the part of the New Haven road management affects not only the Springfield Street Railway Company, the Springfield and Eastern, the Woronoco, and the Berkshire companies, but also the Worcester and Southbridge and the Worcester and Blackstone Valley street railways.

Circle of Holding Companies.

It had been arranged that by October 1 a majority of the stock of the Worcester Consolidated Company would be turned over to a Connecticut holding company. They will all go now into the new involution, that President Mellen has started in the circle of holding companies, to circumvent the Massachusetts laws. It is manifest to lawyers that Mellen was anxious to avoid a lawsuit with the State of Massachusetts, despite his boasting, as he did not feel secure in his position. The Attorney-General has been deluged with copies of the demand of the BOSTON AMERICAN that he proceed against the railroad and his failure to proceed is now bringing severe criticism upon him. The points that stick out prominently in this famous case are:

First—That the transfer of its holdings by the New Haven road was forced by the action of the BOSTON AMERICAN in its formal petition to the Attorney-General.

"Intend to Do You Good."

Second—That the Attorney-General's delay allowed the law-breaking railroad corporation to dispose of its stock in its own sweet way to a "voluntary association," probably composed of men who control the New Haven Railroad.

Third—That the Attorney-General's delay has foisted another combination on the Commonwealth which is not subject to the control of the railroad commission; has allowed another dummy holding company to operate the Massachusetts field.

And President Mellen is saying to himself, as he said to the legislative committees:

"We intend to do you good. I am the president of the New Haven railroad. I am the president of the Connecticut Street Railway Association. I am the president of your street railways."

64 DAYS have elapsed since the BOSTON AMERICAN filed with the Attorney-General a formal information and petition that he bring suit to force the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the Boston & Albany Railroad to obey the law and to abandon the competing trolley lines which they have illegally acquired.

The Attorney-General has delayed action until the New Haven road has disposed of its holdings secretly to a "voluntary association" organized by itself which is not subject to the control of the State Railroad Commissioners.

Why did the Attorney-General delay?

RACING YACHTS WAITING FOR A BREEZE

By Stone Wireless.

ON BOARD TUG PALLAS, OFF MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 17.—Wind indications this morning were no more favorable for today's races for the selection of defenders of the Roosevelt cup than previous days have proved to be.

The committee is anxious for a breeze of sufficient strength to keep the fleet of yachts together, instead of forcing them to separate and go air hunting, but up to 10:30 o'clock it looked as if to-day's races would be sailed in light airs.

Yesterday's races brought two more boats into prominence as factors in the selection of defenders—the Auk and the Sumatra—and experts say that the former will undoubtedly be one of the final pick. The Spokane is also well thought of, and will probably be another selection.

At 11 o'clock the wind was light, from the southeast, and the judges decided to postpone the start of the first.

FOR FLOGGING OF SISTER VOWS VENGEANCE

Brother of Mlle. Smirnoff, Maltreated by Russian Officers, Swears They Shall Suffer.

Special Cable to Boston American.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 17.—The flogging of Mlle. Smirnoff, a member of the Russian aristocracy, by soldiers of the fashionable Chevalier Guard, one of the swagger regiments in the Czar's army, transcends all other topics.

Mlle. Smirnoff, a member of a notable family of St. Petersburg, is the victim of the extraordinary brutality characteristic of the military officers now stationed here. Officers generally seem scared and apparently believe the deluge is near, hence they do not care what they do or what happens.

The AMERICAN correspondent to-night interviewed Basil Smirnoff, the victim's brother, who is a member of the best clubs here. He has written to Premier Stolypin, demanding the punishment of the officers of the Chevalier Guard regiment who were guilty of the outrage.

Addressed Brute as "Prince."

Basil Smirnoff said:

"My sister Anna was flogged by order of an officer whom his comrades addressed as Prince. I've not yet discovered the Prince's identity. Anna's offence consisted in following unintentionally a detachment of the Chevalier Guard passing along the street. In a spirit of levity she remarked aloud: 'Oh, such heroes.'

"An officer of the Guard nearest her shouted: 'We'll show you some heroes.' He seized my sister and ordered her arrest. Officers drove her to the military club and dragged her to the court yard.

"There they struck her, called her unprintable names and spat in her face. The officer whom everybody addressed as Prince commanded soldiers to spread some hay over the court yard and then threw my sister into it, telling the soldiers: 'Now you can do with the girl what you will.'

Soldiers Were Gentlemen.

"The soldiers, being gentlemen, unlike the officers, indignantly refused to attack my sister. Then the same Prince summoned seven privates armed with whips used for flogging convicts. The Prince ordered the soldiers to bring my sister to the post court yard and commanded the seven to give her twenty-five blows.

"My sister fainted under the flogging. The officers cheered while the whipping progressed. My sister's back was a mass of bleeding, bruised flesh.

"Doctors fear that she will die, and that, any way, if she recovers, she'll suffer permanent internal injuries from the terrible flogging.

"I have not yet discovered the names of the officers guilty of the outrage. The regiment contains many officers who are princes and counts, but no matter how exalted their position, I'll never rest until until I've secured an investigation and the punishment of those guilty of the brutal flogging."

BAN ON ICE CREAM AS RESULT OF POISONING

NEWBURYPORT DEALERS MUST SHOW CLEAN BILL OF HEALTH—VICTIMS RECOVERING.

Special to the Boston American.

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 17.—Determined that the scenes at Salisbury Beach, where a hundred persons were sick to the point of death from the poisonous effects of impure ice cream, shall not occur again, the Board of Aldermen and Common Council last night passed an order demanding that every hawker, pedler or retailer of ice cream must show a clean bill of health before selling his goods.

President Moody of the Common Council is responsible for the order. At the meeting he made an appeal for the passing of the measure.

As yet the Board of Health has taken no official vote upon the restriction of the dealers, the four concerns in this city which have been ordered not to sell any more ice cream until the report of the State Board of Health has been made. The samples of cream seized at Salisbury by Chief of Police Beckman are now in the hands of the analysts and the investigation may not be completed for a week.

The dealers who have cream on sale at the beach, and who served many of the victims of Wednesday's poisoning, are Peter & Co., John Camena, Joseph Mitchell and J. Liberatore. In two of these places were found copper cans in which the ice cream was allowed to stand. Unclean tins were also found.

Of the hundred or more victims of the poisoning, Edward O'Connell is in the worst condition. He is still dangerously ill at the Cushing Hotel, but the physicians say he will recover. John Murphy and Michael King of Haverhill have left the hotel for their homes. Others of the sick ones are still at the beach, resting from the effects of their experiences with ice cream.

G. A. R. ELECTS OHIO EDITOR

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 17.—R. B. Brown of Zanesville, Ohio, was elected commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic at the annual encampment here. The other officers chosen were: Senior vice commander, William H. Armstrong, Indianapolis; junior vice commander, E. B. Fenton, Detroit; chaplain-in-chief, Archbishop John Ireland, St. Paul; surgeon general, W. H. Johnson, Lincoln, Neb.

The new commander in chief was born in 1845 and has always lived in Ohio. He enlisted in the Fifteenth Ohio Infantry at the age of sixteen years and is now editor of the Zanesville Courier. The total membership of the Grand Army is 235,823, a decrease of 3,368 during the last six months. The losses by death for the year ended Dec. 31, 1905, were 9,205, or 3.90 per cent. of the total membership.

LOST HER LIFE SAVING BOY

Mrs. Mary Murphy was knocked down and killed by the wagon of Deputy Fire Chief Grady as he was responding to a fire last evening on Green street. She ran into the street after a boy who she was afraid would be run over. The boy escaped all injury. The boy was carrying a watermelon which Mrs. Murphy intended for one of her sons.

TRAINS CRASH; FIVE INJURED

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 17.—Investigations are being made to-day to find out who was responsible for the misplaced switch, at Grand Isle, which allowed a fast moving passenger train to crash into a sidetracked excursion train last night, injuring five people seriously. One car was partly telescoped.

The excursionists were members of the Burlington Odd Fellows Order.

The injured are Mrs. D. D. Eddy, back injured; Mrs. O. E. Tilson, bruised and suffering nervous shock; Mrs. John Russell, internal injuries; Miss Lottie Craft, severe bruises; little boy, name unknown, contusions.

ROMAN VALETS WANT WHISKERS

ROME, Aug. 17.—In direct violation of the unwritten law barring moustaches, a resolution, whereby all valets will cultivate this hirsute addition to their personal charm, was passed at a large meeting held here yesterday. More than 2,000 votes were cast in favor of the movement and from now out there will be little to do for tonsorial artists throughout the city.

Not only have they agreed to let the moustaches grow, but will let their whiskers have full sway. This is in open defiance of what they term a "worn out tyrannous convention."

EXPOSES INSURANCE LOBBY IN LEGISLATURE

UNTERMEYER GIVES OUT LETTERS OF MUTUAL OFFICIAL TO AGENT IN BAY STATE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—What is believed fully exposes the hand of the Mutual Life Insurance Company in the lobby of the Massachusetts Legislature has been brought about as the result of a challenge from Vice-President Emery of the company to Samuel Untermeyer to show that an attempt had been made to kill certain legislation.

Untermeyer, who is counsel for the international policy-holders' committee, yesterday accepted the challenge to "produce one letter or a copy of letter" that would prove the assertion that Mr. Untermeyer had made that "McClintock's written instructions in his own handwriting, not yet published, to the Massachusetts Legislative agent of the Mutual as to how to kill legislation will be interesting reading.

Batch of Letters.

Mr. Untermeyer produced a batch of letters in McClintock's own handwriting and the originals of telegrams from Mr. McClintock, saying specifically that he wished a certain bill killed, but not suggesting how it should be done. Accompanying this batch of letters and telegrams was a telegram sent to W. L. Holden, the Mutual's agent while the McClintock correspondence was going on, and signed "General," which said: "Have mailed you draft for six on Boston to-day."

It was asserted that "General" was the nom de plume that Andy Fields, the Mutual's chief lobbyist, used in certain kinds of confidential communications. There was no intimation at Mr. Untermeyer's office that Mr. McClintock knew anything about the "General" telegram.

Bill Goes Through.

The legislation in Massachusetts to which Mr. Untermeyer referred was a bill to reduce the reserves from a 4 per cent. actuarial basis to a 3½ per cent. basis after a 3 per cent. bill had been introduced in the Legislature.

Six days later the "General" telegram was sent to Mr. Holden. It is assumed that it means that $6,000 was sent to him to use in securing the kind of legislation desired by the Mutual or else to comply with the statement that "All here and elsewhere desired the bill beaten."

The bill was passed finally as Mr. McClintock wanted to have it.

Prices Drop Still Lower

LOUD and urgent is the clamor by our workmen for more room—we can no longer remain deaf to their demands—our intended alterations mean the erection of great stagings—the placing of immense braces—a network of iron girders, in fact a complete upheaval of the Big Store—all this takes room, and lots of it—so with no thought of the sacrifice involved we answer their appeal by a further slashing of prices that will reduce our stock and make more room

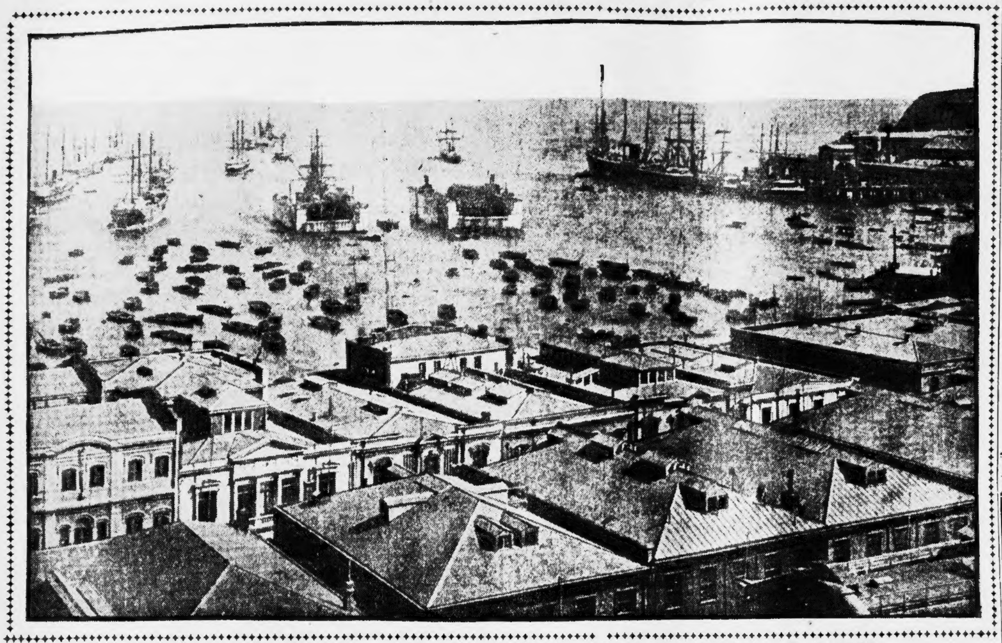
VALPARAISO REPORTED DESTROYED, HUNDREDS SAID TO BE DEAD BY EARTHQUAKE IN CHILI



VALPARAISO, CHILI'S PRINCIPAL SEAPORT, SHOWING WATERFRONT AND SHIPS IN HARBOR.

FLAMES FOLLOW IN EARTHQUAKE WAKE

Thus far the Western Union has succeeded in reaching no further than the cable landing on the outskirts of the city.

BY PUBLISHERS' PRESS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Private advices from Valparaiso, Chili, received in this city this morning, report terrific earthquakes there last night. Many buildings were wrecked and hardly a house escaped without damage. Fires broke out throughout the city. It is feared there have been many casualties.

Cable lines are working as far as "Valparaiso Hut," the cable building on the seashore outside of Valparlso. All lines to the interior of Chili are down. The operator in the hut says that the disaster is probably a repetition of the San Francisco calamity.

Information received up to 10 A. M. is still meagre. It occurred at 7.40 last night and there were several shocks followed by a conflagration. How far, the fire extended or how much damage resulted, has not yet been learned.

The cable operators, who left the office in teh city last night and repaired to the hut, have this morning re-established their headquarters at the main office at Valparaiso. This is construed as meaning that the city has not been ruined.

No information concerning the earthquake had been received at the Chilian Consul General's office up to 10 o'clock this morning.

DOOMED CITY WAS A FORTIFIED PORT

Valparaiso is a fortified city of between 125,000 and 150,000 population, the capital of a province of its own name, and the principal port of Chili. It is situated on a large bay in the Pacific Ocean, 90 miles west north west of Santiago. The bay of Valparaiso is of a semi-circular form, and capable of accommodating a very large fleet. It is well sheltered on the east, south and west but is entirely open toward the north.

During the prevalence of winds from this quarter in the winter season, accompanied by a heavy rolling sea, the shipping in the port of Valparaiso is much exposed.

Picturesque Situation.

The town has a very picturesque situation. The part properly called the port is built on the lower slopes of a range of lofty heights which encircle the bay, and on a narrow beach, widened here and there by deep cutting into these steep highlands. The Almendral, formerly a rural suburb, is the most populous and active part of the city. Here the base of the hills is farther removed from the sea than it is in the Western part of the port, and the intervening space being quite level, forms excellent building ground.

The environs have fine gardens and villas. Of the public buildings, the custom house, market houses, Masonic temple, the police barracks, the jail, the government house, the public warehouses, postoffice, city hall, exchange, theatres, the fine churches, convents and hospitals are generally fine and noteworthy edifices.

There are numerous schools for both sexes. In most of these the English language is taught. Hotels and restaurants are very numerous and are chiefly run by Frenchmen. The foreigners in Valparaiso constitute no mean proportion of the population. The English are most numerous, then the Germans, French and Americans.

Has Modern Improvements.

The town is lit with gas, is well paved and has steam fire engines. It has electric street railways and a fine public library. Many of the artisan class are Europeans, so are the principal business concerns of the city, together with their large forces of clerks and other assistants. This gives the foreign body standing of influence in the affairs of the city.

The city is the greatest commercial port on the Pacific coast of South America, it having an import trade of about $40,000,000 annually and an export trade of about $25,000,000.

MAYOR LEADS REDBERRY BAND

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 17.—The celebrated Redberry Club of Boston and their friends to the number of nearly a hundred arrived here on the 10:15 train from Boston to-day for their annual outing at Pine Point. A special car was attached to the train for the benefit of Mayor Fitzgerald's friends.

Colonel Richard F. Field, who was in command on the trip from Boston, turned the command over to Mayor Fitzgerald upon the arrival of the train, the Mayor having come down last night. With Mayor Fitzgerald and the five brother, Henry, Edward, James, Joseph and George Fitzgerald, in the led, the band of municipal office holders marched to the trolleys and the start for the Point was made.

Superintendent of Supplies Michael J. Mitchell of Boston was already at the Point. Much of the supplies spoiled as a result of postponing the excursion, but those which had to be purchased in Portsmouth and Boston as a result of the Sturgis law were found to be in excellent condition.

NOVELIST'S BODY IN CHURCH.

LONDON, Aug. 17.—The body of Mrs. Pearl Craigie (John Oliver Hobbes), has been placed in the Jesuit Church. There were no flowers except a wreath from the Sphinx Club. Messages of condolence were received from the Princess of Wales, American Ambassador Reid, former Ambassador Choate and Lord Curzon of Kedleston.

TO MAKE SHAH A FIGUREHEAD

TEHERAN, Aug. 17.—Complete demands of the Progressives far surpass the scope of the reforms proposed by the Government, but the Shah, it is stated, has promised to grant them.

These demands abolish all the real power of the Shah, leaving him only a figurehead, and even propose the abrogation of the "divine law" on which his authority is based. The National Assembly shall have competence in all questions of state. The conditions also include complete amnesty, freedom of the press and the right of habeas corpus.

TO PAY BACK $1,239 AT $5 EACH WEEK

By promising to pay up $1,239 at the rate of $5 per week, Harry Levison, a young married man, has been placed on probation by Judge Harris of the Superior Court at the suggestion of Louis Sonnabend, whom he is accused of robbing. Levison was a traveling man for Mr. Sonnabend. It will take him over five years to square his account.

PARALYZED BY OCEAN PLUNGE

PEAK'S ISLAND, Me., Aug. 17.—Nellie Robinson, a waitress, lies at the point of death as the result of a sudden plunge in the ocean while overheated. The nerve centres in her body are paralyzed, as well as all muscles. Physicians are working to save her life.

Miss Robinson had finished her duties in the dining room of the Peak's Island House. Donning her bathing suit she hastened to the water and took a plunge. Suddenly she was seized with paralysis of all the muscles of the body. She was taken to the hotel, and as her condition grew more critical was removed to the hospital.

SCHOOL GIRL TO WED, RISKS ALL

Despite the risk of parental displeasure and losing a fortune, Miss Annie Moore, a pretty Cambridge High school girl of sixteen, will wed Thomas Conlin, a wealthy Harvard freshman, in a fortnight. This is the happy climax of a romance started when Conlin was star ball player and gridiron hero at the Cambridge High school.

C. H. Moore, the girl's father, died since, but whether he carried out his threat of disinheritance or not cannot be told.

Conlin is the son of Andrew Conlin, a former park commissioner of the University city. He is at present employed in Rome, N. Y., and says he will give up college for married life.

Miss Moore now lives at 34 Beals street, Brookline.

LOU CRIGER BACK TO CATCH DINNEEN TODAY

BATTING ORDER.

Ferris, 2b.	Davis, s.s.

Dinneen, p.	White, p.

To-day's game will be the last chance of the season to see the fast White Sox play. This is ladies' day at the popular Huntington avenue grounds and a big crowd is expected out to see the Pilgrims play with the Chicago team, who many think are going to win the American League pennant.

The Boston management announces that Catcher Lou Criger will get back in harness to-day for the first time this season. Since they arrived here, Criger has practiced with his teammates daily, with the result that he finds himself once more in condition to resume the position he formerly held as premier catcher of the world.

According to the cards announced by Manager Collins and Manager Jones, to-day's game will be a pitchers' battle, in which Bill Dinneen, who is in the best form of any of Collins's pitchers, and Doc White, the star pitcher of the visitors, are booked to appear.

Dinneen has been pitching fast ball lately. White has been out of the game for a short time, because of a sprained ankle, but the chances are that he will be on the firing line again to-day.

With Criger back again in the game, the Collinsites are sure to put up a faster and closer battle against the Windy City team than they did in the first two games.

The Sox have now won thirteen straight games and are out to make it fourteen to-day, and incidentally make a clean record in the local series.

Yesterday's game was a slugging affair, particularly on the part of the visitors. They batted Joe Harris for a total of 24 bases.

After the bombardment the Sox gave him in the first inning it is a wonder that Manager Collins did not take him out of the box.

Roy Patterson was in the box for the Chicagos. He was batted freely by the Bostons and gave way to Nick Altrock, who finished the game.

There were many sensational plays pulled off. Parent and Ferris made good plays for the Bostons, while Tannehill, Davis and Jones performed the feature plays for the visitors.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

Peterson's leg went back on him in the first and he retired in favor of Carrigan, the Holy Cross man.

* * *

Ferris fumbled Jones's grounder in the second, but he managed to get his man at first. If the ball had been fielded cleanly Hahn would have been forced at second.

* * *

The Bostons had the bases filled in the first, but Grimshaw flied to Dougherty.

* * *

Smith batted for Patterson in the second and tripled. However, Altrock went in to pitch.

* * *

The White Sox got two triples in the first, Hahn and Dougherty connecting.

* * *

George Davis made a marvellous jumping left handed catch of Hayden's liner in the third.

* * *

Lee Tannehill made a beautiful assist on Parent's hard grounder in the third.

* * *

Davis stole third in the fifth, although it looked as though Carrigan's throw had him. However, a minute later he was caught at home stealing by Carrigan.

* * *

Umpire Sheridan sent Manager Jones from the coaching lines in the sixth for objectionable coaching.

* * *

Carrigan had a passed ball in the sixth, but by a quick recovery caught Hahn stealing second.

* * *

Lee Tannehill threw low to Donohue in the sixth on Hoey's grounder, the ball bounding into the first base bleachers, Stahl, Ferris and Hoey scoring.

* * *

Jones, with his back to the home plate, captured Harris's fly on the dead run near the centre field bleachers in the seventh.

AUTOISTS THANK TOURIST WING

BY J. C. KERRISON.

Some interesting side lights were thrown on the recent A. A. A. tour by Frank E. Wing and Charles J. Glidden at the smoke talk of the Bay State Automobile Association last evening. Both these gentlemen were present and were invited to tell of their experiences, the first as a participant and a clean score man in the recent tour, the second regarding his now famous trip around the world. Mr. Wing, who drove a Marmon on the tour, was congratulated on the excellency of his performance, he being the only member of the association to achieve the distinction of being one of the thirteen clean score men. Mr. Wing was rather modest in his remarks as regards his own work on the tour. He said he soon appreciated the fact that the tour was not a pleasure outing; that it demanded more or less sacrifice and consideration; still he was willing to go on record as saying that he would enter the contest a year hence, even if it were run on the same plans and under the same conditions as the one just closed. Mr. Glidden made a short and interesting address regarding his now famous tour. He likewise congratulated the club on its success in life.

The smoker was the first of a series of such entertainments to be given this season by the entertainment committee, and if the later ones proves as successful as was last evening's then the committee, consisting of J. H. MacAlman, A. F. Hinchcliffe and W. T. Helfer, can feel well satisfied with the results of its work.

It was authoratively stated last evening that the local representative of the Oldsmobile will within a few days be transferred to A. E. Morrison, one of the best known of local agents and dealers. At present the Adams-Sutton Company is handling this line of cars, but arrangements have been perfected whereby the agency will shortly be transferred by that company to Mr. Morrison. This does not mean that the Adams-Sutton Company is going out of business; simply a change in local representation so far as the Oldsmobile is concerned.

Jefferson De Mont Thompson, chairman of the Racing Board of the American Automobile Association, accompanied by S. M. Butler and A. G. Batchelder, the other members of the board, yesterday made application to the Board of Supervisors of Nassau County to hold automobile races on the roads in the county September 22 and October 6 next.

The application was received by Supervisors Jones and Willets, and the A. A. A. men were informed that it would be brought up at the meeting of the board on Monday. Supervisor Seabury, the other member of the board, will then be present. The two Supervisors said that in all probability permission to hold the races would be granted.

The three men came down in a large automobile, and after leaving the Supervisors' room said they would go over the course. Mr. Thompson said that a number of changes in the course were to be made this year. The dangerous places will be eliminated as far as possible. Last year the Long Island Railroad tracks were crossed twice in the race, but this year the course will be shifted and only the tracks of the Oyster Bay branch will be crossed.

Another change that will have to be made, according to Mr. Thompson, is the road where trolley tracks were recently laid. The roads will be oiled at the expense of the A. A. A.

* * *

One of the latest things in electrics reached Boston yesterday, it being the new Baker Surburban. The car is a radical change from anything in the electric line seen in this city. The body itself is of pleasing design. The wheels are larger than usual. The dynamo is carried up forward under the bonnet. It is driven direct on the high and can show twenty-five miles an hour easily. The Harry Fosdick Company, which received the car yesterday, is decidedly well pleased with the same.

* * *

Ezra H. Fitch, a member of the touring committee of the A. A. A., and a sportsman of wide reputation, yesterday left Bangor in his White steamer for a five weeks hunting and fishing tour through Maine and Canada. He was accompanied by Mrs. Fitch and their six-year-old daughter Edith. Mr. Fitch will tour by way of Patten and Ashland to Port Kent, where he will cross into Canada and then continue by way of Edmondston and Notre Dame du Lac to Riviere du Loup. From here Mr. Fitch will follow the St. Lawrence River to Three Rivers, from which place he will strike back through the forests, a distance of about 100 miles to the game preserves of the Laurentian Club.

Mr. Fitch last year made a pioneer trip in his White steamer through territory from Patten to Riviere du Loup and on his present tour, his route to the north of Three Rivers has never before been traversed by an automobile.

JIGGS DONOHUE OF THE WHITE SOX.

For His Bou With Nelson Labor Day.

GANS WORKING HARD

GOLDFIELD, Nev., Aug. 17.—Battling Nelson took a long run yesterday as a starter to get his wind in condition.

Jack Clifford made the trip with Nelson, and will continue to train with Nelson. Lundie is Nelson's friend, and now that he and Clifford are matched for the thousand dollar preliminary go, both of them can train at the Nelson camp.

Clifford sprints a little faster than Nelson and says he is in good shape for the ten rounds with Lundie. The men are to weigh 133 ringside, the same as in the Nelson-Gans fight, and Clifford is all but under that weight now, so he wont trouble on that score. Robbie Lundie is expected to arrive here Sunday and begin training. Clifford told Nolan that if he desired Lundie to take his place in Nelson's camp, he would not be offended, and would look around for a place to do his work, but Nolan said Clifford would stay with Nelson to the finish.

In the afternoon Nelson went out to the hills for a swim, then for another walk and went to bed early.

The question of [illegible] quarters finally was settled today. Nolan's threat to go to Tonopah caused some stirring around at the Ladies Aid Hall, with a cottage next door was secured and the work outlined above will begin in the morning.

Gans is taking his work in earnest and getting down to business. He did nine miles in the morning on the road and in the afternoon before a crowd of fifty persons did his gymn stunts in great style. His quarters cannot be improved upon. They are large and cool with plenty of floor space and seating capacity for two hundred without it interfering with his work.

Gans, in black tights, did an hour's fast work at the punching bag, the heavy punching bag, rope skipping and sparring. The pace was fast all the way and he gave no evidence of distress, but the sweat rolled off him in good shape. He punches the swinging ball with great force and skill and kept it up for twenty minutes with brief breathing spells. In skipping rope, he also does a graceful jig and keeps time with the rope.

Three rounds with Kid Simms finished his day's work with the exception of a hard bout with the sawdust. Simms only scaled 121 pounds and he was rather light for the brunette, but he made it up and gave Gans a chance to show what he could do in blocking and ducking.

The altitude is a little too much for Simms and he was all in at the end of the third round.

The Goldfield Athletic Club accepted the plans and awarded the contract for the arena to Walter Clark. The platform will be twenty-four feet square, with a roped arena of eighteen feet square and the seats will slope back from the four sides. The total seating capacity will be 7,984, exclusive of the press, and if they are all sold the total receipts will be $92,000.

The Goldfield A. C. is not figuring on losing much money on the fight even if it only sells the box seats the rest will be profit. The lowest estimate of the attendance is about 8,000.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 17.—The last game of the series between Boston and the Pirates will be played this afternoon. It doesn't promise to be a "battle royal," because the visiting team isn't in the class with their opponents. It is a very small gamble that they will score the talent believes, and as for Boston winning the odds stand about 16 to 1.

Dorner may pitch to-day.

The cripples are too short of men and are played out. Captain Tenney looks with fear at this Western trip, for should a man on his list get sick the chances are that someone would have to play two positions. There is only one satisfactory thing about the team, however, and that is they can't sink any lower in the league standing.

Fred Clarke led his gang among Pfeffer's curves in the eighth and the Boston twirler had to be assisted from the field at the finish so hard did they light on them. The most dangerous that Boston was able to be was second base, where Howard was twice left. Goode had one chance to make a name for himself in the second inning, when there were two on bases, but he fanned.

EASY WORK FOR HARVARD'S OARSMEN

London, Aug. 17.—Only a light practice was indulged in by the Harvard crew yesterday on account of the absences from the regular eight. Glass has contracted water on the knee from a slight strain he subjected his leg to while running. Richardson was still indisposed on account of a ptomaine poisoning he contracted last Sunday at Lord Desborough's luncheon. He should be back in the boat by the beginning of the week. Glass, however, may not be able to row in the race. L. K. Hunt is at present occupying Glass's seat, while R. M. Faulkner rows Richardson's oar.

The new oars which have been expected arrived in time for the morning practice yesterday and they gave satisfaction. Coach Wray sent the boat up stream as far as the river. Alternate spurts and paddles were put in the stroke varying from 28 to 30.

The Cambridge crew were out twice, in the forenoon and evening. Both times the water was rough and considerable wind was blowing, making the going hard. A few sharp, hard spurts at the clip of 18 to the half minute showed good form.

EDELS SIGNED TO MEET LEWIS

Harry Edels, the Chelsea lightweight, through his manager, Steve Mahoney, signed to-day to meet Harry Lewis of Philadelphia at Grand Rapids on August 22. Jimmy Briggs was wanted, but could not go and Edels took his place. Edels will have a chance to distinguish himself.

DESHLER HAS 'SKY ROCKET' WALLOP

Next Tuesday's battle at the Chelsea Club between Matty Baldwin and Dave Deshler will probably settle the best 130-pound boy in New England and one who will receive considerable recognition from different fighting districts in the country.

Both have it on Kid Goodman, about the most ferocious article with mits on who treads rosin, and their last meeting being a draw leaves no doubt that this bout is going to outshine any in the past for some time back.

Both are ambitious to glimmer in the limelight as the season will be in full blast shortly all over the country and only winners will receive much attention from promoters, so there is much at stake for either boy to get the decision.

Deshler has taken up training with Sam Langford, which means that he will be fit to go any distance at top speed and he will pick up some of the colored man's quick and hard hitting qualities which many fighters would like to have in their kit. He has already acquired a new dream punch and calls it the "sky rocket" and it's a dazzler.

Baldwin, not to be outdone in the sparring partner line, has been working out with Honey Mellody over in Charlestown and that is substantial evidence that Matty will go into battle well equipped with all the necessary slugging powers needed to meet Deshler's terrific attack.

Two excellent preliminary bouts, of six rounds each, will precede the main bout. The first will introduce locally Ike Bradley, the English bantam, against Freddie O'Brien of Chelsea. In the other bout Billy Clinton of Lowell will face Young Cuddy of Lawrence in a match which is creating a furore amongst the sports of the mill cities.

ROCHE GIVES BILLY NOLAN HARD KNOCKS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 17.—"Billy" Roche, secretary of the San Francisco Fight Trust, and one of the best known referees in the business, who has been East in the interest of Jimmy Coffroth, says that he expects to land "Kid" Herman and Jimmy Britt for the Colma Club's opening attraction. Britt has already agreed to fight, and he expects to secure Herman's signature to a contract in a few days.

"Neither Coffroth nor myself was after the Gans-Nelson fight," said Roche. "We made no attempt to compete with Goldfield for that all-star attraction. The Goldfield promoters can have Manager Billy Nolan, and I will venture to say that they will be sick of him before they are through. Nolan is a highwayman, and no club can do business with him and make money. He has Nelson, a good boy, but simply a challenger for the lightweight championship title.

"Until a few days ago I thought that the match was a prearranged affair, but now I believe it's on the square. If it is, Nelson is in for an awful beating, and then it will be back to the jungles with one Billy Nolan. Gans can make the weight all right, and if he's only trying he's a cinch. If Eddy Graney puts down a bet on the dingey it's pay off. I think that Graney is the real man behind the gun for Gans."

GHETTO CHAMP STAYS HOME

Kid Goodman's match with Dick Hyland at Denver failed to materialize, and the Kid is disappointed. The offer appeared bonafide, but turned out a false alarm.

Hyland is scheduled to meet Cyclone Thompson of Chicago at Los Angeles on August 28, but it was only by offering exceptional inducements to the big-headed 'Frisco boy that he was willing to take on Thompson. Hyland is now after Britt, Herman or Nelson, and can't see any other boy in the ring game.

MISS ROTCH IN FINAL.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 17.—Boston, represented by Miss Edith Rotch, and Wal- represented by Miss Edith Rotch, and New York, represented by Mrs. Barger-Wallach, will meet in the finals in the woman's lawn tennis tournament at the Casino this morning. Both won their matches in the semi-finals and are expected to put up an exciting game.

A VANDERBILT WINNER.

DEAUVILLE, France, Aug. 17.—William K. Vanderbilt's Maintenon won the William the Conqueror stakes at the races here yesterday.

AL DELMONT PUT THE NAVY CHAMPION AWAY

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 17.—The bout between Katzenberger, the "champion of the navy," and Al Delmont at the Gloucester Athletic Club last evening was rather disappointing, as Katzenberger was completely outclassed. He had nothing but ability to run away, and during the two rounds the fight lasted did not land a single effective blow.

Delmont was his master all the way through and finally put him away in the second with a right punch on the jaw. Katzenberger is a left-handed lad, and is shifty on his feet, but that about lets him out. He had no chance with a past master at the game like Delmont.

The semi-final between Mike Grady of Southbridge and Gus Ross of Boston was the best bout of the evening by far. Both boys were in the pink of condition and put up a great article of scrap. Grady was the favorite with the crowd, and when referee Steve Mahoney declared the bout a draw there were loud hisses of disapproval.

Ross had to hold on and hug to save himself from a knockout after the fifth round. Grady showed that he is a fast and clever boy and will give the best of them a run for their money. Mahoney was right in his decision of a draw. Ross was wonderfully clever in blocking. It was a fierce fight and a good one though an unpopular decision.

The preliminary between Kid Barrish of South Boston and Jack Gardner lasted only two rounds. Gardner never had a chance, being knocked out by a right on the jaw. The fact that neither Admiral Evans nor any of his officers appeared was a great disappointment. Admiral Evans is said to have a sprained wrist.

EVANS QUALIFIES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17.—Out of a record field of 165 entries 100 odd golfers returned cards in the qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament which began to-day on the links of the Deal Golf and Country Club. Brice S. Evans of Brae Burn, the Massachusetts interscholastic champion, qualified in the first 16 with 83.

NEW PLAYER FOR COLLINS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—Tim Murnane of Boston, president of the New England League, who is here to confer with W. H. Watkins of Indianapolis regarding the purchase of a couple of players for the Boston American League Club, left last night for Buffalo.

Mr. Murnane arranged for the purchase of Outfielder Sullivan of the Minneapolis Club, and it is surmised that Watkins is either transacting the deal for Mike Kelley, manager of the Millers, or he is still interested in the club and is making the deal on his own account.

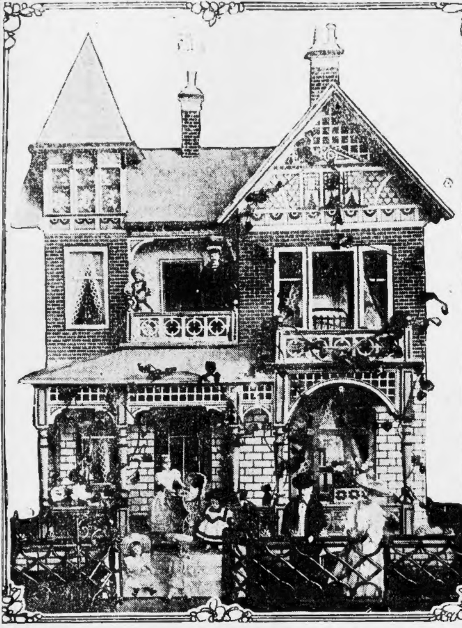
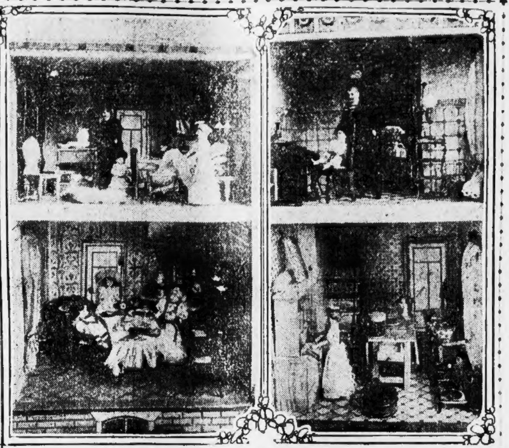
WRITE AND TRY TO WIN THIS BIG DOLL'S HOUSE





Three New Views of the Beautiful Doll House Which will Be given to The girl who Writes the Best letter.

Tell How You Would Keep House; Your Letter May Be the One to Win the Beautiful "Happy House"

SO many good little housekeepers are planning what they will do with the beautiful doll house should they win it that there is no doubt the Happy family will fall into good hands.

Do you know, dear little girls, that the very best thing a girl can do is grow up to be a good housekeeper and mother?

You can begin to get ready now by keeping your toys and things neat and clean. If you help your mothers with the housework you can learn a great deal.

Supposing every little girl who reads this tries for a whole day to help just as much as she can with the housework, and then writes and tells the Doll Editor all that she has done.

No matter how small you are you can be of some help.

If you had a house of your own and a little daughter you would like her to help you, wouldn't you?

Well, that is just how your mother feels about you. She will be so proud and happy over everything you do.

Some day you will be grown up and will be the mistress of a pretty home and have a family of your own to look after.

How will you be able to take care of them properly if you have not learned how to keep the house nicely and to make the children happy?

Write and tell the Doll House Editor how you think a house should be kept and how you would look after your family. Tell just how you would go about your work.

The best letter will win the beautiful doll's house.

Address your letters to the Doll House Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Letters From Girls Who Want the Doll's House

HERE are some nice letters from little girls who are trying to win the big doll house. Some letters will be printed every day. Of course all cannot be printed, for hundreds are being received in every mail.

If your letter is not here, do not be discouraged. It may be printed any day. If you have not written yet, send your letter to-day.

SPOTLESS AND CLEAN

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

Do you know what I would do if I had a house of my own? I would clean it from top to bottom twice every week. Every thing would be spotless and clean. I would give my children plenty of enjoyment, and teach them to love and respect their parents. They would be kept healthy, happy, clean, and be as the motto—"Early to bed and early to rise will make them healthy, wealthy and wise." They would have healthy food to make them fat and strong. After their bath they would take a walk in the fresh morning air.

ALICE LASSEN, 13 years;
No. 90 Monument street, Charlestown.

HUBBY STARTS FIRE

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would set the alarm so my husband could get up and start the fire; then I would get up and get his breakfast; then I would do the dishes. On Monday I would do my washing; Tuesday, iron; Wednesday, I would bake enough to last till Saturday; Thursday I would do some sewing; Friday, I pay the grocer, pay the insurance man and fry the fish; Saturday I would wash the floor and clean the bedrooms, and Sunday morning I would go to church. If I had children, I would make them mind, put them to bed at 7 o'clock, make them go to Sunday school and learn them manners.

KATHLEEN O'CONNOR, 10 years.
No. 27 John street, Marlboro.

NO TOBACCO OR LIQUOR

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

If I was going housekeeping, on Monday I wash the clothes and get them out before breakfast. In the afternoon I mend the clothes and sprinkle them. Tuesday I iron them and do some baking and cooking. Wednesday I sweep the floor and put the house in order and take the dolls out. Thursday I do my sewing. Friday I do half cleaning and some cooking. Saturday I do rest of cleaning and wash the floor and steps and do some cooking. Sunday I dress the children and go to church. In the afternoon I will go to Franklin Park. Every day I dress my children and send them to school. I would have no tobacco or liquor in my house.

LORETTA SWANSEN, 7 years.
No. 81 Thornton street, Roxbury.

KIND BUT STRICT

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

I would keep my home pretty, neat and clean. When I get up in the morning I would first dress my children, wash them and air my beds. Then go down and make breakfast. After that is done and the kitchen all cleaned I would go upstairs and make the beds, sweep, tidy, and dust the rooms. I would give my babies a nap in the afternoon, and take them for a walk after my work is finished. I would be kind but strict to them, teach them to help me in the housework and be obedient and polite.

GERTRUDE GUMPRIGHT, 10 years.
No. 9 Woodward Park street, Dorchester.

VERY STRICT

DEAR DOLL EDITOR:

When I have a family I will get up early to start my work, and if there is time between the school hour and meals I will make my oldest girl wash the dishes. I am going to have a clean and neat house and my children neat and clean, too. I would have a maid to help me if I needed one. I intend to be very strict with my children in the way they behave towards me and outsiders. I would also dress them as good as possible and make them happy at the proper time.

BESSIE O'DONNELL, 13 years.
No. 95 Milton avenue, Dorchester.

Don't Measure All Pleasures by the Money They Cost

By Beatrice Fairfax

I THINK that if some of our great grandmothers could see us they would say, "What is the matter with the young women of to-day—they are so blase and lackadalsical? They are not content with simple pleasures, as we used to be; they want everything to be big and imposing."

And, really, girls, the amount of excitement that the modern American girl considers necessary to her welfare is quite appalling.

Our grandmothers were satisfied with a dance two or three times during the season, and as for going to the theatre, that was indeed a rare treat.

But unless the girl of to-day goes to at least one dance a week and sees every play she considers herself a martyr.

She has grown to expect so much entertainment and money spent on her that it is quite a serious menace to her matrimonial prospects.

The average young man cannot think of marrying on the same salary that his father did, and the reason of that is that the average young girl demands much more in the way of luxury than her mother did.

Man Is Frightened

SHE does not consider that a man is paying her proper attention unless he is constantly spending money on her.

Naturally this frightens the man, and he argues to himself, "If she requires so much spent on her now, how could I afford as much as she would demand after we were married?"

The girl who encourages a man to save his money never makes a mistake.

If she marries him they will be all the better off for the saving; if she does not she will be spared the humility of his having spent more than he could afford on her.

Be satisfied with simple pleasures, girls; the person who gets joy out of the small things of life is so much happier than the one who demands a great deal.

On a Money Basis

IF you care for a man surely the amount of money he spends on you cannot add to nor detract from your love; that would put love on such a very sordid basis.

Some men have a very poor opinion of girls, you know.

They say, "Oh, a girl only likes a man for what she can get out of him; if he spends money freely on her she is all sweetness; if he does not, she has no use for him."

That, of course, is most unfair, but sometimes when you see a girl encouraging a man to spend more than he can afford on her you cannot wonder that men should speak harshly of her and of girls in general.

Your grandmothers had fun and married and lived happily.

It is safe to assert that your grandfathers did not spend as much money on them as you expect your sweethearts to do.

Take a leaf out of their books, enjoy yourselves as much as you like, but don't measure your enjoyment by the amount of money spent in producing it.

Pity the Helpless Dog That Is the Victim of These Feminine Follies

FIDO has never been admonished to take no thought what he shall wear, and no doubt his little head is quite full of frivolous meditations on the subject of dress. For the dog people are complicating canine life by introducing into it about as many of the frills of the feminine world as one small dog can stand without committing dog suicide.

One of the canine fashions of the Summer is the wearing of thin suede boots, in light, delicate colors to match the frocks of the small beast's mistress.

No doubt it will take some time before careless and imprudent dogs can be taught to pause to put on their rubbers before rushing into the wet grass or out in a rainstorm. There are now high rubber canine boots, buttoning on the side, for this worthy purpose!

Parasol for Fido

Another very necessary innovation for the dog, when one considers how his cruel mistress takes him out into the freckling sun, is a tiny parasol, intended to be fastened to the harness or dog collar. This is of silk and lace, or even of hand embroidered batiste, and so doggishly becoming that it would be a shame for any dog to have to resort to sunburn lotions and complexion restorer for lack of one.

It's a provincial beast who now motors without a pair of goggles astride his nose, in canine duplication of the hideous eye shields of his master. His mistress wears a veil, and dog veils have not yet come into fashion.

Smart dogs now push their goggles up over their nose before alighting, and readjust them with one paw when returning to the automobile.

Traveling Bag

No, the dog does not carry that handsome leather traveling bag marked with his name, because, with all his precocity, he hasn't yet learned to walk on his hind legs.

It is made with a flap at one side, which, when down, shows a wire netting; and within is a soft pad for the dog to lie on, whose mistress wants to transport him handily about as an innocent piece of baggage.

Dog collars are things of art. One lovely one is of pale blue suede studded with jeweled peacock's eyes.

Stunning harnesses are made of black seal, edged with light blue or red kid, and studded with imitation jewels.

Have Cottages

Fashionable dogs at this season of year reside in Summer cottages made of fancy colored straw, surrounded by imitation trees of dog size, and well-planned walks.

These artistic villas are set up on a shady corner of the porch or lawn, and the dog with a good imagination no doubt fancies himself the proprietor of a landed canine estate.

Really, there's hardly any more fun being a dog! An awful lot of foolishness does seem to be thrust upon the helpless beast. And if anybody hears of a small dog putting a bullet through its brain, or slinking stealthily toward the Charles River, it may be taken for granted that it is simply fleeing from the fear of elbow gloves, and princess frocks and "Peter Pan" blouses, which will no doubt be thrust upon it before the Summer is over.

Fall Brides' Gowns Must Match Jewels

LIKELY enough most dressmakers believe just now that womankind's liking for jewels is born of the evil one or, at least, of some imp of torment. The high and mighty makers of frocks, who have made their own laws in regard to color schemes, are compelled to bow to the latest fashion in jewelry.

A bride-to-be no longer will let her dressmaker dictate the shade of her going-away frock. The one thing necessary is that it match her best jewels. "The most amazing thing about this idea," said a dressmaker recently, "is that it spoils carefully made plans.

"Of course, we are willing to let our customers wear what they please, though they are often so artistically blind when they choose their own clothes that they look like comic valentines.

"But the great drawback to the new plan lies in the fact that many persons give wedding presents in the way of jewelry just before a marriage. Of course, all the dresses have been planned and half made by that time. What are we to do? Make new frocks to suit the trinkets?"

One fashionable dressmaker in London says that a bride-to-be had given an order for a going-away gown to match superb fire opals set in silver. But her fiance gave her a beautiful set of amethysts—necklace, brooch, bracelets and earrings.

"She came to me in great excitement a few days before the wedding," snapped the modiste, "and said she couldn't possibly wear the going-away dress we had almost finished. What would go with a 'blaze of color' would not go with amethysts at all, she said, and she was determined to wear the purple stones when she started on her honeymoon. Of course, we had to get to work. We made a mauve outfit to match her jewels in just two days."

Just a short underarm seam and a seam in the back. If desired the sleeve may be tied together with ribbons. Several materials suggest themselves for the making, such as lawn, dimity, silk or challis with trimming band of contrasting color. If a more dressy garment is desired, ruffles of lace could be used around the neck and down the front. The medium size requires 3 yards of 36-inch material.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

JIM, with his memories of the dingy, dirty back parlor at the Rumal establishment, thought he could never have imagined a room so delightful. From where he sat he could see through the open doorway, across the garden, gay with flowers, whose perfume stole into the room, the long stretch of fields beyond the dusty ribbon of the road, where John Herries's prize Jerseys stood in ruminative attitudes and a lark high overhead poured out its heart in song.

"I say, Miss—Miss Wynne, but it must be fine to live here!" he cried at last, unable to contain his delight at his surroundings any longer.

"Miss Wynne" smiled across at his eager face, as she spread the cloth over the table. Jim watched her appreciatively as she set the breakfast table with a daintiness that unconsciously appealed to him; the cloth was so spotless, tempting honey in the comb reposed in a crinkled white dish, there was a jar of flowers in the centre.

A Confession

"Now, don't move, Jim; I'll wheel your chair round to the table. And remember you are not to bother to talk until you have had breakfast."

Even the delights of yesterday's breakfast paled before this; there was a new-laid egg on the plate before him, bacon (the smell of which was almost a meal in itself, as he told his hostess), and toast. Olga kept his plate piled.

She was feeling glad somehow at the coming of her unexpected visitor—not only because she was able to repay some of the great service he had rendered her, but because, too, it took her a little out of her own sad thoughts having her womanly sympathies enlisted on behalf of this boy, who had come to her looking so tired and forlorn and miserable.

"Now, Jim, you shall tell me your story, if you like," she said at last. "I shall have to go to school at 9—I am a schoolmistress now, you know. But I need not go for quite twenty minutes yet. You say you walked all the way from New York?"

"That's so. You see I had a—a little misfortune and lost my ticket at the Grand Central, so I had to foot it. I was comin' to see Mr. Herries, 'cos—well, the fact is miss, I've—I've run away!"

He blurted it out rather nervously; he was not quite sure whether Miss Vail might not think it as dreadful a proceeding as two nights ago Mr. Parslow seemed to have done.

"You've run away from those people in Brooklyn, Jim? Oh, I am glad you thought of coming here—to your friends," she said, with a sympathy that won the boy's heart. "I hope they did not find out that it was through you that I was able to escape, and were cruel to you?"

"Well, they did find out, and I thought I'd beat it. It was the Farmer I was afeared of most; he cut up awful nasty; found out it was me locked him into that room. You don't think then——" he began anxiously.

"That you are to be b'amed for running away, Jim? No, nor will Mr. Herries, I am sure. I am glad you have cut yourself adrift from people who live by crime and evil, and who would have tried to bring you up like themselves," she said gently.

Powerless to Help

She was powerless herself to help the boy, but John Herries was not. She was glad he had cut himself loose from those dark and evil surroundings—this boy to whom she owed it that she had escaped from the power of those who meant to trade on her defencelessness and force her into paths of crime, who would have brought this boy up to be a thief like themselves.

"I am glad you have run away, Jim. I shall see Mr. Herries to-day, and he and I will have a long talk about my unexpected visitor. Now I must run away to school, and I'll leave you in charge of the house while I am gone"—she smiled—"or, better still, you shall have a sleep, and then you'll be fresh and ready to talk to Mr. Herries when I bring him to see you."

Jim was tired out; every separate bone in his body seemed to ache; he had only managed to snatch a few hours' sleep under a tree on his tramp from New York. He was glad enough to curl himself up on the couch, and was asleep in two minutes. Olga drew a rug over him before she went out to her duties.

She was glad to have had this unexpected visitor quartered on her; her own thoughts that morning were so sad and troubled that it was a relief to turn her mind to helping some one else who was in trouble, too.

On the first night, when Olga came to Yonkers in the guise of Miss Wynne, the expected schoolmistress from New York, she had thought that here in this quiet place she might find peace for a little while after the storm and stress of the past few weeks.

She had thought that she could live quietly here, her identity unsuspected, safe from the police, and that some day circumstances and time might lead to the discovery of the real culprit for whose crime she had suffered, and she could resume her name and walk out from the shadow of fear.

Idle dreams! Those words of Armadale had fallen like a bolt from the blue, shattering all her new-found peace. Ever since she had caught those excited words they had rang in her ears.

Terrible Doubts

"Herries," he had said, "it has just flashed on me who the woman was who passed me on the stairs that night. It was Freda Vail, who slipped by me with a cry in the dark, after creeping out of the dead woman's flat with Zingara's jewels in her hand!"

Until Armadale's words no suspicion of Freda had crossed her mind. Olga tried to fight the suspicion now—it was too terrible to think that her own sister could have been guilty of that crime. But those insidious doubts could not be repelled.

Armadale professed himself positive that the woman who had slipped out of the dead woman's room and past him on the dark stairs, with those stolen trinkets in her hand, had been Freda.

Her mind traversed feverishly the events of that night.

Freda had been in a strange, restless mood, she remembered; had gone out, saying that she would take a letter Olga had been writing to the post. She was gone a long time, but Olga thought nothing of it at the time; Freda might have called in to see some one she knew living in the row of flats.

Having herself to go to an adjoining store Olga had run down, leaving the door ajar, since she expected to be gone only a few minutes. When she returned Freda had not come back.

According to Armadale's story, which she had forced Herries to tell her, it must have been whilst she was gone that Armadale met the unknown woman on the stairs, and heard the fugitive pause half way down, since the artist descending a few minutes later remembered meeting her, Olga, entering the building.

Suspect Her Sister

Had that unknown woman been Freda, and had she paused in her hurried flight downstairs to rush for a moment into the flat to hide the traces of guilt, before in her fear of pursuit she had rushed down into the street?

That would account for the presence of the dead woman's jewels in her room that had so mystified Olga. It was just possible that a stranger rushing down might in an impulse of panic, eager to dispose of tell-tale evidence, have darted into the flat, seeing the door ajar.

But it was a thing Freda would have been more likely to do than a stranger.

Olga had never suspected her sister, though she knew that the girl had a mania for gewgaws, had more than once gone up to Mrs. March's flat and persuaded the dancer to let her array herself in the jewelry Zingara wore on the stage.

If it had been merely robbery it would have been easier to believe things of Freda. It might then have resolved itself, when explained, into some wild prank, innocent of any intent worse than mere mischief. But the jewels had been taken from a dead woman.

TO BE CONTINUED.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

UNNECESSARILY JEALOUS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

When I was on my Summer vacation I met a very nice young man. He is twenty-four and I am twenty-two years old. Now he has told me of his love and he has visited my home in the city, but I went away with a friend of mine, and he has called on her also. Now he tells me he only liked this girl and was just keeping her as a friend, and that he really loved me. What will I do, as I don't want to end friendship with either one? Do you think he loves me?

HEARTBROKEN.

I THINK you are worrying needlessly. You surely do not object to his treating your friend civilly. If he shows decidedly that he is attracted by her let him go, but until he does why do you make yourself unhappy by doubting him?

ACCIDENT, POSSIBLY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady and am keeping company with a young gentleman for the past year and a half. He loves me dearly, for he told me so very often, and I likewise returned his love. He has been calling on me steadily three or four times a week. He called one day last week and told me he would be occupied on business matters in the future, and would not be able to call quite so often, but he would call the following Friday, and not before.

Last night my lady friend and I took a walk up the avenue, and unexpectedly we met him and his gentleman friend with two strange young ladies. Now, Miss Fairfax, how would you advise me to act toward him the next time he calls, for I feel he has treated me deceitfully? We did not stop with them; they simply greeted us.

DAISY.

THEIR joining the other girls may have been quite accidental. When next you meet him treat him just as you always have. If his manner shows any lessening of interest you can treat him accordingly. It is not fair to judge him until you have proof positive that he has changed.

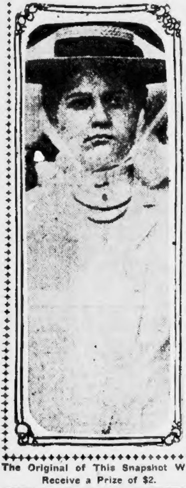
CAMERA MAN PRESSES THE BUTTON AND YOU GET $2

He's Apt to Catch You Any Day, So Keep Watch For Him When Shopping.



The Original of This Snapshot Will Receive a Prize of $2.

WOULDN'T any of the feminine readers of the BOSTON AMERICAN like to earn two dollars without knowing it, without even being able to prevent it?

Of course they would.

Then watch out, while you are shopping, for the Camera Man of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

He presses the button and you get two dollars.

Lots of women have earned two dollars this simple way, just by being photographed by the Camera Man as they were unsuspectingly walking along the street. When the Camera Man photographs a woman—and he takes one every weekday—the picture is printed in the BOSTON AMERICAN. As soon as the original of the picture recognizes it and comes in and tells the BOSTON AMERICAN about it she receives a two-dollar bill as reward.

Isn't this about the easiest way there is to get the money. All it costs you is car fare at the outside.

So keep close watch for the Camera Man and for the new photo daily in the BOSTON AMERICAN. Any time you are out on the street in the shopping districts you may be caught by the Camera Man and your picture will be published in this paper.

The Camera Man circulates mainly in the neighborhood of stores patronized by readers of this newspaper. That's just a tip for you about the Camera Man's stamping ground.

Remember, some woman shopper is entitled to be photographed and to receive Two Dollars every day. Watch out—you may be next.

"Respect for Law" —Did You Notice It in Brooklyn?

Don't You Think That the Corporations — MONEY DRUNK — Are Pretty Thorough Educators?

It appears that the law-defying corporations are determined to complete the public education.

In all the history of financial contempt for human rights, we know of nothing to equal the recent achievements of the Street Car Trust in the Borough of Brooklyn.

Justice Gaynor decides that the law FORBIDS the street railways to charge a ten-cent fare to Coney Island. He declares the legal fare to be five cents.

This decision of the justice JUSTIFIES THE PEOPLE, WHO LOOK UPON COURT DECISIONS AS VALID, IN REFUSING TO PAY MORE THAN FIVE CENTS.

Upon their refusal to pay a charge FORMALLY DECLARED ILLEGAL BY A JUSTICE OF THE HIGH COURT, passengers are beaten, one or two are killed, hundreds are thrown into ditches. One woman's child is taken from her AND KEPT UNTIL SHE PAYS THE ILLEGAL FARE.

Women and children are pushed, kicked and thrown off the cars.

The railroad owners officially declare THAT THEY WILL PAY NO ATTENTION TO THE DECISIONS OF THE JUSTICE, saying: "The officers of the company do not regard Justice Gaynor's opinion as binding on them."

Another representative of the Street Car Trust declares, in the presence of a number of witnesses, that the railroad is justified in throwing people out of the cars, and, if necessary, IN KILLING THEM, if they refuse to pay the fare illegally demanded.

Not very much need be said by way of comment in a case of this kind.

The corporations that have been preaching obedience to law, the corporations whose only protection is in the courts, DELIBERATELY IGNORE AND INSULT THE COURTS THE MOMENT THEY DARE TO GIVE A DECISION AGAINST THEM.

Such decisions, it is true, are RARE in these days. But is it not a little unwise for the corporations to refuse to permit ANY JUDGE AT ALL to give a decision against them?

The Legislature of New York State fixes the price of gas in New York at eighty cents. THE COMPANY LAUGHS AT THE LAWMAKING BODY, AND THE PEOPLE STILL PAY A DOLLAR.

Justice Gaynor decides that a certain fare on a street railway is illegal. AND THE CORPORATION ACTUALLY KILLS PEOPLE IN ENFORCING PAYMENT OF AN ILLEGAL FARE.

There is not very much to be said, fellow citizens.

We can, however, all congratulate ourselves upon this:

IT APPEARS TO BE PRETTY HARD TO EDUCATE US AMERICAN CITIZENS UP TO THE POINT OF PROTECTING OURSELVES. We have endured a good deal of insolence, a good deal of pushing and overcrowding and overcharging by every corporation in the country.

It has seemed IMPOSSIBLE TO MAKE THE AMERICAN WORM TURN. But the corporations are evidently determined to do the impossible.

THE BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT COMPANY IS GOING TO EDUCATE THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND OPEN THEIR EYES, IF THEY HAVE TO KILL A THOUSAND OF THEM TO DO IT.

A little later—on Election Day, next November—the voters of New York will have a chance to tell the Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Mr. Ryan and the political dummies who work for him what they think of this incident in the life of a big city.

We ask the readers of this newspaper ONE question, and we should like to hear their answers:

DO YOU BELIEVE THAT IF NEW YORKERS HADN'T BEEN CHEATED OUT OF THEIR VOTES BY THESE CORPORATIONS, WORKING THROUGH POLITICAL BOSSES, AND IF W. R. HEARST WERE NOW MAYOR OF NEW YORK, THAT THE BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT PEOPLE WOULD BEAT WOMEN AND CHILDREN under the protection of the New York City Administration?

Do you think that if W. R. Hearst were Mayor of New York the news of the last two or three days would not have been very different? Do you think the police would be used, against their will, to oppress the public?

It is evident that corporations believe A POPULATION THAT, WITHOUT PROTEST, WILL ALLOW ITS VOTES TO BE STOLEN WILL ALSO ALLOW ITS WOMEN AND CHILDREN TO BE KICKED WITHOUT PROTEST.

The corporations are running up quite a score. When will settling day come?

"A Great Fight Coming; You'd Better Join in"

—PRESIDENT OSGOOD

The following letter to the independent voters of the State has been issued by the Independence League:

To the Independent Voters of Massachusetts:

Throughout the State Independence Leagues are being formed. The Independence League of Massachusetts desires to assist local organizations in every possible manner. The general purposes of the league are made clear by the statement of principles which we have issued to-day.

In order to proceed systematically in the organization of leagues, it is desired that as large a list as possible may be secured of men in the cities and towns throughout the State who are seriously devoted to these objects and are willing to assist in the active work of forming local organizations. All persons interested are earnestly requested to send their names at once to the secretary of the State league, at 402-403 Winthrop Building, Boston, stating whether they are desirous of assisting in the organization work or merely of becoming members.

We are entering upon a great contest between the people and their enemies. All who are in sympathy with this movement, whatever their party affiliations, should, as early as possible, express their willingness to co-operate with us.

Dinkelspiel on Things Theatrical

HOME, NOW.

MEIN LIEBER LOOEY—ve haf receifed your letter from Horseheads, N. Y., und ve vas glad dot pitzness vas pretty goot on der road, drummering, in spite of der heatness of der atmosphere.

We notice in your letter vare you observe dot der t'eatrical season for dis year vas formally opened in Horseheads mit a play called "Uncle Tom's Cabin," vich you vitnessed for der fairst time.

It is a nice idea, Looey, to go to der t'atre und get eggercise for der mentalities, eggspecially der vorks of Shakespeare such as dis "Uncle Tom's Cabin" vich you mention.

For many years I haf not vitnessed "Uncle Tom's Cabin," but as I recollection it now it vas a play full mit a happy combination of tears, pathos, laughter und misplaced ferry tickets.

Your mother spoke to me abouid it, dit I efer see der play, und she vas much obliged ven I recitationed to her all dot I could remembrance abouid it.

I enclose to you my memory of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in dese vords, as following, to vit, Looey:

ACT FAIRST.

Der scene baffles my description, so der act vill haf to begin mit der speechifiers.

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes?"

"Vas dare any vun night stands in heafen, Uncle Tom?"

"Not yet, because only veek stand actors efer get dare!"

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"Haf you counted der house?"

"Not yet, but I vill—ein, zwei, drei, vier, funf, sech—das is alles!"

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"Is it only sigs audiences in der house to-night?"

"Only und less, because two is not audiences. Dey vas criticals, und dey came in on passes."

"Vich leaves but four audiences, und vot is der scales on der prices?"

"Ten-twen-thirt, leedle Eva!"

Den der orchestra gets up und he plays a cubble of slow chords.

Der moonlight blisters der outside of der Ohio River und makes a climax.

ACT SECOND.

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"Let us hope dey vent der limit und paid thirty cents, vich gifs us $1.20, yes!"

"You forget der house gets a rake-off!"

"Vot vill ve get ouid of it, Uncle Tom?"

"I luff you too vell, leedle Eva, to mention such a sour sum of money."

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"Vot is a shine?"

"A shine, liddle Eva, is a large audience vich remains avay from der theatre!"

"Nefer mind, Uncle Tom; ve can go in der fruit pitzness if dey hand us enough lemons!"

Der two bleedhounds now approach der property man near der calf of der leg, vich makes a climax.

ACT THIRD.

"Stood back, Simon Legree!"

"Dis, to me?"

"You may vip dis olt black skin, but my heart is more vhite den yours, Simon Legree!"

"It should be—you hat a glass of milk for dinner!"

"Simon, cease to vhip me vile I ask you, vare do ve go from here?"

"If I vas a mind reader I would not be in dis pitzness, Uncle Tom!"

Den Eliza rushes into der Ohio River und starts for der udder shore, but der ice is nailed to der floor und refuses to be a ferryboat. Dis makes a climax.

ACT FOUR.

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"Vas dere a bad place to vent to ven ve die?"

"Belief me, dere is, leedle Eva, but it is closed during der theatrical season."

"Vy, Uncle Tom?"

"So dot der party dot runs it can took a trip around der vun-night-stands und get some new ideas how to make it hot for us."

"Uncle Tom!"

"Vell, leedle Eva, vot is it, yes!"

"I dink I hear der bleedhounds baying."

"No, leedle Eva, it is not so much baying as it is indichestion. Der bleedhounds haf yust eaten up der scenery for der last act!"

Den der manager steps ouid und informations dere audience dot der dogs haf consolidated mit der scenery. If der audience vants its money back dey can get it from der bleedhounds, vich vill be untied. Dis makes der audience falls ouid der vindow und goes home, eggscited, but happy.

CURTAIN.

Vas dis anyding like der vay dey played it at Horseheads, Looey?

Maybe it is dot my memory is getting deflective, yet.

You know, Looey, ven Shakespeare fairst adaptioned "Uncle Tom's Cabin" from der French it was his idea to play it only in der large cities.

But Shakespeare dit not lif long enough to protect his work by der copyright law, und here ve see it, going to der dogs, scene by scene und climax by climax.

Alas! ven der finish comes ve may eggsclaim mit dis same poet, "A nose by any udder name vill vin a horse race."

Yours mit luff.

WHO CAN ANSWER THIS QUESTION?

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—If it be a fact that our foreign carrying trade is less to-day than it was one hundred years ago, and that, notwithstanding the fact that previous to the Civil War this country had over 70 per cent. of the foreign carrying trade, what, in your opinion, is the best method to pursue in securing at least a portion of the two hundred millions of dollars paid at present each year to foreign shipowners?
